

MORGAN HOUSE CUTS
DIRECTORSHIP LISTSEVERAL CONNECTIONS TODAY WITH SOME OF LARGEST CORPORATIONS IN COUNTRY.

IS A VOLUNTARY STEP

Head of Firm Explains That Action
Was Taken in Response to Sentiment
Against Interlocking Directorates.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 2.—J. P. Morgan & Company today announced that it had severed its connections with some of the largest corporations in the country. This step, the firm announced, was taken voluntarily in response to "an important change in public sentiment" or "accusations of some of the" so-called interlocking directorates.

Among the companies from which it retired, are the New York Central and the New Haven railroads. J. P. Morgan made this statement:

"The necessity of attending many board meetings has been so serious a burden upon our time that we have decided to withdraw from the directorates of many corporations. Most of these directorships we have accepted with reluctance and only because we felt constrained to do so by the requirements of those securities we had recommended to the public, both here and abroad."

"No apparent change in public sentiment in regard to interlocking directorships seems now to warrant us in seeking to resign from some of these connections. Indeed it may be in view of the change in sentiment upon the subject that we shall be in a better position to serve such projects and their securities in the future. We have already resigned from the companies mentioned and we expect from time to time to withdraw from other boards upon which we are now serving."

Long List of Firms.

The companies to which Mr. Morgan referred from whose board members of the firm have already submitted their resignations are:

P. N. Jones—New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company.
West Shore Railroad Company.
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway.
Michigan Central Railroad Company.
New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.
Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway.
New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.
Central New England Railway.
Hartford, New Haven & Connecticut Railroad.
New York, West Chester & Boston Railroad.
Milbrook Company.
New Haven Navigation Company.
New England Steamship Company.
Rhode Island Company.
Hartford & Connecticut Western.
New York, Ontario & Western Railway.
Western Union Telegraph Company.
Other members of the firm have retired from these companies:

Charles Steele—Jersey Central Railroad Company.
United States Steel Corporation.
H. P. Davidson—American Telephone & Telegraph Company.
Astor Trust Company.
Guaranty Trust Company of New York.
The Chemical National Bank.
W. R. Porter—Bankers Trust Company.
Guaranty Trust Company of New York.
Thomas W. Lamont—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.
Citicorp Company.
Astor Trust Company.
Bankers Trust Company.

No Legal Necessity.
By withdrawing from these corporations, J. P. Morgan & Company have cut the strings that have held together many of the country's most important corporations in a community of interests which have been assailed within and without Congress. It has kept within the law within all its complex operations and no legal necessity or threatened complications have made it necessary to sweeping change in policy, announced today.

One of the members of the firm said that Morgan & Company had been scrupulously careful to observe the law as well as to keep their hands clean in the matter of the law and that decision of the firm was purely a matter of expediency. Conditions had so shaped themselves in the past, he said, that the firm had been compelled reluctantly to accept the burden of management of various corporations and that it had long been seeking an opportunity to lessen this burden.

Departed From Custom.
In making the announcement, the Morgan firm said that its long established custom in regard to its dealings with the public in times past the head of the house has been almost unapproachable. Today telephone notices were sent to various newspaper offices and that representatives call at the Morgan banking house to see Mr. Lamont.

To the group of reporters that assembled, Mr. Lamont said: "Mr. Morgan has something he wishes to say and will do so himself."

Then Mr. Morgan entered the room and greeting the reporters cordially, said: "I have here a little piece of news to give you. We are resigning from a number of corporations. I have the list here and also a little interview which explains the reasons."

When Mr. Morgan himself distributed typewritten list with much good humor and greetings, New Year's good wishes all around.

Known in Washington.
Washington, Jan. 2.—Administration officials here have known for some days that a movement was on foot in New York to separate the Morgan house from some of its larger directorates and as expressed by one familiar with their affairs to get in line with the wishes of the people and the spirit of the times, as set forth by the president.

This information was highly gratifying to cabinet circles, but in the absence of President Wilson from Washington it was not known whether the prospective movement had been made known to him. It is viewed as primarily important, it be-

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 2.—President Juan Vicente Gomez returned to the capital today after an absence of five months. He brought with him the army of 7,000 men with which he had encamped at Maracay since early in August when Gen. Cipriano Castro, the former dictator, made an unsuccessful attempt to cause a revolution. The soldiers marched through the principal streets and then were drawn up in front of the Miraflores palace where the members of the foreign diplomatic corps and the president offered their New Year's greetings.

It seems probable from the intimations given in the New York address of Acting President Dr. Jose Gil Fortoul that the termination of the state of war at present existing will be shortly proclaimed by the government. The constitutionalist guarantees covering trial by jury, etc., will thereupon be re-established.

SUFFRAGIST ARMY IS HIKING TO ALBANY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The suffragists led by General Rosalie Jones, who left New York on New Year's day to march to Albany, set out from New York at nine o'clock this morning. Their route led through Haverstraw and Stony Point today and they hoped to spend the night at Tompkins' Cove, eighteen miles north.

The first day's journey over the wind-swept Hudson river brought the hikers to Nyack last night with little enthusiasm for anything but the march. General Jones led at six o'clock and the rest of the band soon followed her example.

At Albany the marchers will meet other suffrage workers and present to the legislature a petition asking for 30 acres of government land before today and permit other persons to homestead it.

It was announced several years ago that because of survey errors the part of the state no title had been given to several townships. Revised plats have been approved by the department of the interior. Persons living on the tracts were given the first opportunity to homestead it eligible.

STOLE "MONA LISA"

Vincenzo Perugino.

Vincenzo Perugino is the Italian who stole "Mona Lisa," the famous painting by Leonardo da Vinci, from the Louvre art gallery in Paris in August, 1911. The painting was recovered in Florence on December 12 last. Perugino, who is a house-painter and whitewasher, was at one time an employee in the Louvre. He says he offered the painting to J. Pierpont Morgan some months after he stole it, but that the financier refused to deal with him.

PENSION SYSTEM IS PRACTICAL SOLUTION
TO CHARITY PROBLEMJudge Neil, Begins Campaigning In New York for Adoption of Law to Break Charity Trust.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Jan. 2.—In every city, large and small, are organizations of well meaning people who propose to help the children in poverty and to get money, clothing, shelter and food for poor children. Children who fall into the hands of these charitable agencies are first disgraced, then taken from their mothers and in the end poverty is not even relieved.

Begging is demoralizing to all concerned, even when it is done by a fine lady, or a fine organization of our best people, and the stationery from a fine office. History shows that being failed to educate the children and as industry demanded girls and boys who could read and write, the free public school system was established and has just about abolished illiteracy.

Charity schools were a miserable failure. They have gone. But the Russell Sage Foundation and other good institutions will go. Piffing around in the name of charity, that charity will relieve child poverty, teaches him to beg, and fills the giver with a false pride that hurts his charity. Charity can not even relieve child poverty and it does not even propose to abolish it.

For scores of years this begging business went on unhindered. The United Charities of Chicago collected more than $200,000 a year, seventy-five per cent of which went to salaries of "investigators," whose chief work was obtaining jobs for dependent mothers. Such jobs as they obtained were washing and scrubbing, laborious work, which ruined the mothers and broke up the family. Thousands of families were broken up in this way. The technical court charge for breaking up the family, however, was not enough, failing to keep the boys out of the streets. They were sent to the hospital brokedown. Thus, juvenile court records and the amazing statistics of the charity trust show that no homes were broken up by poverty. The facts are that poverty was the cause of all the broken homes that passed through the juvenile court and charity trust.

Early in 1911, I happened to run into this supreme crime against mother and child. Selling black babies away from their mothers, I saw a woman who had been through the world and helped bring on the bloody civil war. But I have seen white mothers, good mothers, noble mothers, separate their children from their own children, because they were poor. This crime was committed in the name of kindness and charity. I hope God will forgive them. This is going on in New York state at this very hour and any day may be seen in the juvenile courts and observing the processes.

Appalled at the separation of mother and child, the supreme crime, the most awful punishment that could be devised by the state, I conceived the idea of pensioning mothers. Quietly the law was passed in Illinois and went into effect on July 1, 1911. Since that time thousands of children have been delivered from the streets and the breaking up of homes has been checked. The new system met with the approval of the public and at this time has been adopted by eighteen cities. The begging charities of Chicago have proven inefficient in the eyes of the public. The high-salaried experts and the horde of "investigators" could not raise last year more than $700,000 although assisted by committees of prominent business men. Many charity workers are men. Many by the failure of the begging societies have been hired by the county as civil service employees to help the pensioned mothers. Instead of waiting their time as employment agents for wash women and scrubbers.

The pension system has been found economical as all the money goes directly to the children and their mothers, and the family is not subjected to the insult of charity. More than the pupil in the public school. Under this system families are not broken up; hope illuminates the life of the mother; she remains at home in the care of her own children; the little ones may have a home of which they are proud, and the records of the juvenile courts show that the usual juvenile delinquency has about disappeared from pensioned families.

Before the pension system was adopted in Chicago, three hundred of seventeen hundred children were brought into court on charges of petty theft and infractions of the law. After these same seventeen hundred children had been pensioned only three were brought into court on charges. The cause of this is the pension which enables the mother to remain at home and look after her own children. The results are amazingly successful, and Chicago will soon abolish entirely from the city limits, child poverty, the blight of civilization. Begging must stop. It is a failure.

Green Bay, Jan. 2.—Five fishermen barely missed losing their lives in Green Bay yesterday while setting traps at Point St Aubin. Three of them were upper out of the ice when they saved themselves only after swimming forty feet in the icy water. The other two were rescued a half mile from shore as an ice floe was carrying them out into the bay.

ONE YEAR RESIDENT LAW
PUTS "DIVORCE COLONY" AT RENO COMPLETELY OUT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Reno, Jan. 2.—As a divorce center, Reno went into the past class today when the new divorce law requiring a year's residence before application can be made for divorce went into effect. It is now just as hard in Nevada to shuffle off the bonds of matrimony as in any other state. The divorcees who are already here, going through the process of separating themselves from their wives or husbands will be permitted to finish their task, but thereafter none others but genuine, one-year-at-least residents need apply.

Reno's reputation as a divorce colony was made by the rush which followed the passage of an easy divorce law. Actresses, society women and others flocked here in droves.

UNUSUAL AMOUNT OF WORK IS LINED OUT
FOR SUPREME COURTNumerous Cases in Program for Judicial Body in Addition to Announcing Many Decisions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 2.—The supreme court of the United States will begin the new year next Monday with an unusual amount of work. In addition to the probable announcement of many decisions, the court has set down for hearing on that day or as soon thereafter as possible, enough cases to consume the time of the sittings of the court for the week.

One of the most interesting of these involves the liability of the owners of the ill-fated Titanic, which went down after striking an iceberg on April 14, 1912. The owner of the vessel, the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, a British corporation is seeking to have its liability for the million dollars worth of claims lodged against it for the loss of life and property in the catastrophe limited under American law to the value of the salvage, the freight and passenger fares received the trip, in all about $300,000.

A millionaire's honor roll will be heard when the court calls a series of cases involving the validity of the legality of the tax imposed by the Payne-Aldrich tariff law on the use of foreign built yachts by American citizens. H. Clay Pierce, Cornelius E. G. Billings, James Conant, George A. Rainey and Mrs. Harriet Gould each will have a case attacking the tax.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 2.—"Ignorance on the part of a missionary will not long hold the intellectual respect of the Oriental student," declared Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago in urging the training of missionaries in social study and actual social service, before the student volunteer convention for foreign missions here today.

The object of the movement is to equip for foreign missions the fields with trained college men and women volunteers. Prof. Henderson declared missionaries today were called upon to do much more than preach. They were demanded by various situations," he said. "Not only caring for the sick and teaching boys team work in play, but also transacting of scientific literature on subjects of large number of municipal, provincial and national law makers who are already aware of the fact that they must learn from western science."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marquette, Jan. 2.—Marquette and surrounding country is today enjoying the first real snow storm of the season. It is a big boom for loggers who have been waiting two weeks for snow roads. About three inches have already fallen and the snow is making it possible to skid logs to the river banks. The storm is worth thousands of dollars to lumbermen and means brisk times for the next three months as every available man will be hurried to the woods. Logs have been waiting on skidways and in the lumber mills were idle on account of the unprecedented conditions. The sawmills from Escanaba to Marquette will begin operations in a few days.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS
DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Whether public libraries should attempt to satisfy the public appetite for "popular" fiction or should leave that field to the subscription libraries was one of the questions discussed today at a meeting of the American Library Association.

The increasing cost of furnishing magazines to library patrons, due to recent advances in subscription prices, was the subject of a vigorous discussion. It was probable that a resolution would be addressed to the publishers, asking for better terms for library purchasers.

CARNEGIE INSTITUTE IS READY FOR OCCUPANCY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Jan. 2.—The Carnegie Institute's new building equipped for the study of terrestrial magnetism was made ready for occupancy today. It is a structure absolutely unique in building. The most interesting feature is the amount of steel conduits to safety was used in the construction, as steel would affect the delicate magnetic instruments to be housed in the structure. Moreover, the specifications called for as many vibrations as possible and the contractors sought to accomplish this by a construction unusual in buildings. Cross walls of the building have been literally hung from a concrete girder and the floor of the foundation work have been packed in sand.

It will be at least six weeks before all the delicate instruments used by the institution can be installed and made ready for use.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR HOLDS
THIRTY-SIXTH BIRTHDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Vienna, Jan. 2.—Entering upon his 66th year as Emperor of Austria, Franz Joseph, 83 years of age, today received more New Year's greetings probably than any ruler in the world. Telegrams and cablegrams poured in upon the Emperor all day from every corner of the world, including a hearty despatch from President Wilson. Aside from the despatches there was a steady stream of callers, including his daughters Archduchess Gisela and Princess Leopold of Bavaria, their children and grandchildren. Foreign Minister Berchtold, ambassadors of foreign powers, generals, admirals and other high military officers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pass Christian, Miss., Jan. 2.—Mystery enveloping the visit here of John Lind, President Wilson's special envoy to Mexico ever since his coming was announced, continued today with the refusal of all information as to when or where the president would see him.

Mr. Lind remained aboard the scout cruiser Cestus, early today, having arrived off Ship Island, eight miles below here last night. The revenue cutter Winona was waiting to transfer Mr. Lind but up to nine o'clock no move had been made.

Reason for the secrecy maintained with regard to every phase of Mr. Lind's visit, notwithstanding announcement by the president's envoy himself as to his coming, is puzzling the correspondents here.

PARIS POLICE BAN
GAMBLING BOOTHSThousands of Small Boulevard Fairs or Booths Closed by Strict Order.
From Police Head.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, Jan. 2.—A custom which has been in vogue in Paris for a long time was smashed to pieces today as the result of Prefect Lannier who came down with a heavy fist upon the multitude of lotteries which flourished along the boulevards of Paris from Christmas Day until New Year's. His ban is absolute and condemnation is in the hands of wheelmen.

On Christmas Eve ever since before the Oldest Inhabitant can remember, booths of the kind down or street fair sort, have sprung up like magic along the entire length of the great central boulevards and avenues of Paris. There are thousands of them, lining both sides of the streets. In some sandy is sold; in others cards are printed which you wait; still others sell other things, principally mechanical toys and Christmas novelties for children. But almost every other booth has its "wheel" and barker keeps up a perpetual yell, urging passersby to step up and win the Grand Prize. For years these gambling devices have increased until now during Christmas week the boulevards form a huge Monte Carlo where one bets a two-cent piece, instead of a louis, and wins—if one happens to be lucky—more or less worthless "prizes" instead of gold. The wheels are of every earthly variety but the principle is the same—Get the money and keep the prizes.

M. Hennier declares working men spend a week's pay in the vain hope of winning a five cent stick of candy, or a shot and the legitimate toy-makers and venders suffer so the prefect simply stopped the show.

TO FUTURE COURSEDemocratic Congressman Considering
Running for the Gubernatorial Nomination.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, Jan. 2.—Congressman T. F. Konop is undecided whether he will run for the gubernatorial nomination. A feeling is being sent out. Today the Appleton Crescent, the largest democratic paper in Congressman Konop's district, published the following dispatch from Washington:

"The people of Wisconsin will nominate the candidate for governor no matter how the politicians may be signing, or what states they may be in. This is the statement made by Congressman Thomas S. Konop, representative from the 8th Wisconsin district, when interviewed in regard to the gubernatorial and congressional campaign in Wisconsin in 1914."

"Many friends of Congressman Konop in Wisconsin have written him from his home state and many prominent leaders have urged that he should have also urged him to become a candidate for the governorship of the Badger state."

Mr. Konop declared that he is not giving the matter much thought. When asked point blank whether or not he would be a candidate for governor of Wisconsin, he simply stated that he did not know whether he would be a candidate for reelection to congress in the fall of 1914.

"It is too early to be running for office," declared the 8th Wisconsin district representative. "I am too busy performing my task here as a member of congress. When the proper time comes I will make an announcement."

DEPUTY SAVED MAYOR
FROM LYNCHING MOBTHIS IS STARTLING INFORMATION
CONVEYED TO GOV. FERRIS
BY SHERIFF CRUSE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 2.—A telegram received today by Gov. Ferris from Sheriff Cruse of Houghton county, dealing with the alleged deportation of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, contained information entirely new to the governor.

Cruse said that Deputy Hinsley reported to him that on the night of the alleged attack that a crowd had Moyer in front of the Scott Hotel and threatened to lynch Moyer and throw him into the lake. Hinsley prevailed upon the crowd to send Moyer away on the train and this they finally agreed to do," said Cruse in his message.

Hinsley got on the train with Moyer and then learned that he had a wound on the head and a shot in the back. The conductor wired ahead and had a physician meet the train at Winona. Hinsley accompanied Moyer as far as Channing.

Probes Moyer Attack.
In response to a telegram asking him to investigate fully the alleged attack upon Moyer, Special Prosecutor Attorney George D. Nichols, of Houghton county, sent the following message to the executive office today:

"Have investigators at work and am waiting for Moyer to return for work out him I can do little. I appreciate fully the importance of the matter, but I must go at it the right way to accomplish anything. If you were on the ground you would agree that I am taking the right course."

Captain Chester McCormick, in command of the artillery company stationed at Houghton today, telegraphed the governor that the striking miners have disregarded the ultimatum issued by the operators that they should return to work Jan. 1, or their places would be filled by other men.

Willing to Negotiate.
Houghton, Mich., Jan. 2.—Another distinct step towards settlement of the copper miners' strike was ordered today. An anxiously awaited telegram reached O. N. Hilton, chief of counsel of the Western Federation of Miners, and he said that his receipt showed that nothing that had happened in the mine negotiations was distasteful to the union. Contents of the telegram were not divulged. The telegram means that the miners will go on with the conciliation plans," he said.

John B. Densmore had not discussed the message with the representatives of either side early in the day.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Whether Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, shares the hope reported from the copper region of Michigan that the strike will be settled, could not be learned from him as he declined to see reporters. This, it was said, were orders from the physicians who are attending him at St. Luke's hospital here.

ROCK COUNTY FARMS THOROUGHLY MODERN

PROF. ALLAN WEST TELLS OF METHODS OF SUCCESSFUL DAIRY FARMERS.

EXPERIENCE ESSENTIAL

Alfalfa and Silos Used by Modern Dairy Men and Careful Selection of Stock to Bring Financial Success.

(By Allen B. West.)
The writer has been using the opportunity afforded by the holiday vacation in visiting some dairy farms in Rock and Jefferson counties and believes that the readers of the Gazette will be interested in a brief account of some things observed.
The day after Christmas found us at a farm about half a mile south of Milton Junction. About fifteen years ago the present proprietor of the farm was a butcher, who had never lived on a farm, could not milk and was ignorant of farming operations. On a farm of 30 acres he now has a small herd of thirty grade Jerseys which are bringing him an income of $1,800 per year.

Entering his barn we found it an up-to-date barn; well lighted, white-washed with a convenient, equipped with the King system of ventilation, and the Hoard home made stanchions and cow ties. His silo opened into his barn in front of the cows so that they could be fed with economy of labor. This he had directly above the cows. This consisted of shavings which he buys by the carload. In a convenient corner were the spring scales for weighing his milk and the record sheet.

On being asked to what he attributed his success the owner replied, "I give my cows good hay, I raise alfalfa and it is well cured and cared for, and I give my cows the best of care. My barn is warm and comfortable. I sell off the cows that are unprofitable and keep only the best."

In the writer's mind these statements are significant but they do not tell the whole story. Further conversation revealed how the man got his start.
One of the large factors in his success was the fact that he realized his ignorance of farming and instead of trying to learn in the hard and expensive school of experience he went to those who had had experience and learned of them. He got into communication with the experiment station at Madison, secured their bulletins, sent them samples of his soil for analysis, wrote them about his problems when he could not get the help he needed from bulletins. He took agricultural papers and attended farmers' institutes and visited the farms of those whom he knew to be successful. He used all the scales and the Babcock test, his milk being weighed at every milking, and carefully estimating the value of feed consumed and the amount of butter fat he was able to produce. He had a cow and built up his herd until now his cows are bringing him an income of $100 per cow above cost of feed and he has none that he would sell for less than $100. He raised alfalfa hay grown on his farm and silage with a moderate amount of grain, not "crowding" his cows in any way.

It was the good fortune of the writer and his wife to spend two days at the home of an enterprising young farmer of Jefferson county. The home itself showed evidences of culture and refinement. Its furnishings were not only substantial but also beautiful. There were books and music, papers in abundance and we observed that Webster's dictionary and the Bible were both within easy reach. The young man used daily the young people were aware of the opportunities for nature study afforded by the presence of bird and bee books. There were agricultural papers, farmers' bulletins and half a dozen of the best agricultural papers. That there was co-operation between husband and wife was shown by the helpfulness of the husband about the house and the fact that the little three year old daughter was able to name all the cows in the barn.

The young farmer is a graduate of the short course in agriculture. His farm numbers only 70 acres, it being his aim to so manage as to eliminate hired help. His neighbors are also small farmers and in common they can change help with each other. He is putting in alfalfa, recognizing its value in dairying. He has been a member of a cow testing association and was interested in looking over the records, showing that the cows were bringing a profit varying from $13 to $82 per year.

A mile and a half north of Port Atkinson is the home of Mr. Hoard, the editor of Hoard's Dairyman, a man who started in life as an itinerant leader of singing schools and played the violin at country dances. He owned 300 acres of land, well situated and from the small beginning of one hundred or so acres of worn-out land, has grown to its present proportions. Mr. Hoard does not own a hired man but has a competent man as manager, who showed us about the barn.

What impressed one most as one entered were the evidences of cleanliness and comfort. The walls and ceiling were whitewashed, the floors were clean, there was light and air which was quite different from that in most barns. The cows in their stanchions seemed the embodiment of peace and comfort, and it was a pleasure to walk between the long lines of pure bred Guernseys with the man in charge noting the excellent qualities of these or that cow. The owner of the herd was in a big box stall and we were told that although she was now past the age at which cows were considered profitable, she was not for sale. She had never borne other than heifer calves and would never be sold. The entire herd is in the Advanced Registry with the exception of the heifers who have not yet made their record of 200 pounds of butter fat. None of the cows can be purchased for less than $250 and from that on up. The milk of the heifers being tested for the Advanced Registry and carefully weighed at each milking and if a cow fails to come up to the standard required she is sold. When making the test the cow is fed rather lightly, not as a matter of economy but as a matter of principle.

Thegewater Farm on the West bank of Rock river, is about a mile from Ft. Atkinson and is owned by Curtis and Knulands, dealers in dairy stock. In their herd there are Guernseys, Holsteins and grades. There we saw several of the descendants of the famous Polly Dimple of Massachusetts, recently received from office arrangements were being made for shipping some cows to Dakota. There were about 120 cows in the stanchions at the time of our visit, beside the cows with calves in the box stalls and a considerable amount of young stock and some bulls. Here we found the vacuum cleaners for cleaning the cows and the Sharples milking machine which we saw operated here for the first time. The milk of the herd is disposed of by sending it bottled in wagons to customers in Port Atkinson, these customers numbering several hundred. At the time of our visit, between three and four o'clock in the afternoon, Edgewater farm was a busy place, the men feeding and milking and caring for the cows, buyers looking at stock, bottles being washed and made ready to receive the milk, the office telephone ringing, etc. By six o'clock the work of the day ceased and the quiet reigns on the big farm as the cows lie down in their comfortable stanchions, chewing their cud.

CHIEF KLEIN SELLS VETERAN FIRE HORSE

"Piker," For Eight Years in Service of Local Department, Has Been Disposed Of.

After eight years of service in the Janesville fire department, during the larger part of the time at the west side station where he responded to every call, "Piker," a sleek black gelding has been sold by Chief H. C. Klein of the Janesville fire department. The horse was purchased by the department in 1905 and has been in service at the Spring Brook station. Two bids were received for his purchase and the horse was sold at private sale for $45. He was about 15 years old.

To take Piker's place Chief Klein has purchased a seven-year-old bay gelding from Robert Lyke near Clinton and the animal will begin his course of training at once under the direction of the firemen at the Spring Brook station. The new horse weighs 1,500 lbs. and is abnormally sound. He cost the city $125.00.

NEWVILLE RESIDENT ANSWERS LAST CALL

Mrs. Frederick Christopher Brown Passes Away on December 16th After Lingering Illness.

Caroline Johanna Lappe, only daughter of Caroline Marie and Albert Herman Lappe, was born January 6, 1844, in Germany, and died in Newville, Wisconsin, December sixteenth, 1913. At the age of twenty she was married to Frederick Christopher Brown, to whom she bore five children. The children were born, in order of age, Max, Emil and Lex of this place, Mrs. Ned Damuth of Milton Junction, Mrs. Geo. Sholes of Milton, Mrs. Ray Bagley of Palmyra and Emma, and a brother Fred of Chicago, Mary, wife of Asa Randolph, died twenty six years ago. Mrs. Brown came to this country in 1861, and a part of this time she has lived among the neighbors who are now called upon to mourn her death, the death of an upright, honest, industrious Christian woman, a faithful wife and a loving mother. Those who knew her best in life mourn her most in death and fully realize that though Mrs. Brown has gone to the home beyond, her charitable character will be a lasting influence to the community from which she has departed. Her sorrowing children find consolation in knowing that their mother was too much of a Christian to defame the reputation of a friend or neighbor, but ever ready to throw a mantle of charity over their shortcomings. So speaks her pious life, a life of genuine usefulness. She was fully prepared to answer the final summons and to meet her fittingly said, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." She has gone to join her husband who preceded her twenty-one years ago. For the past few years she had been in failing health, but the end was hastened by paralysis. The funeral was held from the late home in Newville Thursday at one o'clock under direction of Mortician Clark. Rev. Schoenfeldt, Edgerton officiating. The song service was rendered by Rev. Mrs. Schoenfeldt, Miss Edna Wilson and W. Vickers. Her five sons and one grandson acted as pallbearers. Interment was made in the Passet cemetery in Edgerton. Many beautiful floral offerings were in evidence as tokens of esteem to a loved one departed.

MRS. F. C. BROWN.

ELDERLY MAN ASKS FOR FIRST LICENSE

But Didn't Have Health Certificate as Required by Eugenics Law.

An elderly gentleman, who had failed to fortify himself with a health certificate, as required by the new eugenics law now in effect, was the first and only applicant for a marriage license in the county on Monday. The prospective bridegroom told the county clerk that he supposed that he would be exempt from the law on account of his advanced years, and was given the information that the law was applicable to all men who applied for marriage licenses. He left the court house with the evident intention of complying with the provisions of the new law.

VISITS TWO CITIES TO INSPECT SYSTEM OF STREET LIGHTS

Mayor Fathers Not Entirely Satisfied With Boulevard Plan After Trip to Baraboo and Champaign.

Mayor James A. Fathers found several important objections to the boulevard system of street lighting as it is carried out at Baraboo, Wisconsin, and Champaign, Illinois, both of which he visited with the last few days for the purpose of securing ideas for the improvement of the street lighting in Janesville.

In both cases the cost of installation and the expense of maintenance were under the old plan, although it was true that the cities were infinitely better lighted. Mayor Fathers found that the style of lamps to be used and the elimination of waste lighting due to the absence of satisfactory reflectors, which was especially noticeable at Baraboo, were two important problems to be considered. Mayor Fathers was struck with the brightness and effective use of the lighting of the four business blocks at Baraboo which face the city park. The ornamental posts and cluster of lamps are used with great effect, securing light and beauty, both important elements for consideration. The main dance streets are fairly well lighted with the single lamps which are mounted on cement posts. The cost of the present system is over $5,000 annually, or more than $3,000 over the former plan. At Champaign, where the plan is practically the same as in Janesville, the wiring at Baraboo is underground, which is an important factor.

At Champaign, Mayor Fathers undertook the expense of the equipment for the boulevard lighting system; purchasing and installing the lamps, posts and wiring. To do this it was necessary to borrow the city for $500 and considerably more than this sum was spent before the apparatus was placed in satisfactory working condition.

A portion of the wiring at Champaign is underground, this being true for the reason that a great deal of the residence streets, where property owners were willing to pay at the rate of fifty cents per foot frontage to secure additional lamps. The lamps or lanterns alternate between the two sides of the street and are supplied with shades or reflectors which Mayor Fathers found to be an improvement over the lamps at Baraboo. The current is supplied to the city at a reasonable price, two cents a kilowatt.

Mayor Fathers declared today that he was not satisfied with the style or lighting power of the lamps which are used at either city, and that he still held the idea that a new and better lighting plan would be more effective than the boulevard system. He was much interested in a nitro-gen lamp which was brought to his attention by a professor at the Illinois University whom he visited at Champaign. He was of the opinion that this new lamp, if successful, with the overhead system and large reflectors for each light, would be a pronounced improvement. He also expressed his favorably toward the underground wiring proposition which would mean the sinking of the wires at the street curb to the depth of about a foot.

Mayor Fathers conferred with the mayor and chairman of the lighting committees of both the cities visited, and was shown every courtesy.

COUNTY SUFFRAGIST MEETING SATURDAY

Rock County Association Will Assemble at Library Hall at Three O'clock Tomorrow.

The Woman's Suffrage association of Rock county will hold a meeting at Library hall at 3:00 p. m., Saturday afternoon, January 3, for the purpose of holding a state convention for 1914, and reports of the state convention held last November will be given by the Janesville delegates who attended, giving both the program of the convention and the result of its deliberations. The Rock county association has been working quietly but faithfully during the last six months to raise its share of money for the support of state and county work which now takes the form of educational campaigning or the rendering of public service in aiding patriotic and civic matters. All over the state it has been observable that the women's movement is making great strides in the way of woman suffrage. The reports of the convention give several incidents of this persuasive campaigning method.

THE S. S. H. CLUB HOLDS MEETING LAST NIGHT

Twenty-four guests were present at the meeting of the S. S. H. Club, held last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins, 221 Center avenue. Cards and dancing followed the evening meal, and a most enjoyable time was had by those present. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Patrick Cullen, 518 Chestnut street, passed away last evening after a brief illness. She was born in the county of Armagh, Ireland, in 1840, and was 74 years of age. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, one brother, James Murphy, of this city, and several nephews and nieces, also of this city. They are: Isaac, Joseph, John and Edward Connors, John and George Deoley, Mrs. John Deoley, Mrs. Barron and Annie and Katherine Deoley. Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church Saturday morning at nine o'clock, and interment will be at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

COSTUME PARTY IS GORGEOUS AFFAIR

Antique and Modern Representations Were Present at Wednesday Evening Function at Michael Hayes Residence.

Quaint and modern costumes, representing people from all over the world, were worn by twenty-four young people of this city who assembled on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at the Michael Hayes residence on South High street to participate in a watchnight and dancing party. The affair was given in honor of Louis Hayes.

Japanese, French, American, English and various other countries were characterized in dress, manners and customs. Perhaps the most interesting characters of the evening were those taken by Mark Cullen and Raymond Barnes, as "Mitt" and "Jenn" during the entire evening, as the actions and dress were as identical as the real characters that appear on the stage today.

Karl Keller, as a feminine Hungarian dancer, was recognized as having the most difficult makeup of the entire set of costumes. Mr. Keller treated the subject perfectly, and at times when he would be dancing with a lady, he really looked as an English colonial mistress, was displayed as a rich color costume. Edward Atwood, Louis Hayes, Noel Fulton, Charles Hayes, Victor Hemming and Harold Amerphol appeared as six French brothers. Their makeups were excellent. Tracy Allen represented a U. S. cadet from the early days, with a tight fitting suit covered with brass buttons.

H. Morehouse, a visitor in this city from the Howe Military school, was in his elaborate school uniform. Ruth Kline was a charming Japanese child of small stature.

Marion Matheson, Caroline Richardson, Elizabeth Holmes, Margaret Jeffries, Phyllis Kelly and Francis Jackson were all Italian mistresses with modern costumes. Esther Harris took the part of a clown with a freakish hat and gown. Helen Baack and Sybil Richardson were pretty American girls of the modern day. They were the only American representatives at the party. Faith Bostwick wore a green Irish costume.

Dancing was in order from eight-thirty until twelve-thirty. Sixteen musical numbers were rendered by Miss Gertrude McGinley. At the end of the eighth dance, the couples enjoyed delicious refreshments served by Miss Joanna Hayes.

As the clock struck twelve, and as the new year was being ushered in to take the place of the old 1913, the happy couples danced to the strains of music and got one heartier whiff of the new year, which were occurring throughout the city at that time. The party broke up at one o'clock, after a most pleasant time.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Harriet Merrill, Formerly of Town Line, and Now of Beloit, Passes Away in Illinois.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Town Line, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Harriet Merrill, a former resident of Town Line, passed away this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Woodard, at Cherry Valley, Illinois. Before her death Mrs. Merrill was a resident in Beloit.

Mrs. Harriet Merrill was born in Orange county, New York, Oct. 1827, and was therefore eighty-six years of age. She was married Oct. 3, 1846, to Robert Wheat, came west in 1871, and settled just north of the farm on which she now resides. Mr. Wheat died Jan. 13, 1875. After his death, for a number of years, Mrs. Wheat lived in the city of Beloit. Of this union there were eight children born, four dying in infancy and early childhood, one daughter, Jennie, dying Aug. 23, 1876, and a son, Homer Wheat, who passed away Dec. 22, 1894.

Two daughters survive Mrs. W. P. Woodard, Cherry Valley, Ill., and Mrs. John Bender of Kansas City. Also her grandchildren at Cherry Valley and four at Kansas City.
June 16, 1881, Mrs. Wheat was married to David Merrill, one of the pioneer residents of Beloit, who passed away seven years ago. In 1895, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill moved to Cherry Valley, where they have since resided. Mrs. Merrill was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Beloit. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but interment will be in the city cemetery at Beloit.

The Wonderful Power Of Daily Newspaper Advertising

Read The Letter Printed Below.

For many years Mr. Myers has been the owner of a large number of the billboards of this city and has had ample opportunity to test out their pulling power as an advertising medium.

As may be judged from the following reproduced letter of Mr. Myers THE GAZETTE has produced better results for him than the billboards.

Taking it all in all the Daily Newspaper, THE GAZETTE in this field, cannot be surpassed by any other advertising medium, in producing results. When dollars are being spent for advertising be certain about the result producing medium you employ. There is not nor ever has been any question regarding the value of THE GAZETTE, the following is just one instance:

Charley Brickley, the Harvard fool, is modest, and then some. He has recently declared that all he knows about drop kicking is the result of capable coaching, and anyway he's got an awful lot to learn about it yet. Brickley says he is anxious to pick out his weak points and overcome them next season. Yale, please write.

The question of pensioning Pop Anson was never very seriously considered by those who would have the matter in charge. They knew that Pop wouldn't take the change if it was offered to him. It might well be asked: "What does Pop Anson want with a pension?" He's knocking down enough cash as it is in voodoo to meet his modest needs, and then some. From what is known of Pop's circumstances, it will be a long while before he needs a pension.

Fred Clarke likes to hunt in the winter. An amusing anecdote is related of a recent duck hunting trip he made along the Arkansas river. The first day out Clarke was pleased to note that the ducks gathered around his decoys quite plentifully, but he and his party agreed that it would be better to wait till the day following when the feathered creatures of the air would not be quite so timid. Upon their arriving at the spot the next day they rejoiced to see lots and lots of ducks, indeed, and they were about to shoot among them when some person from across the river shot at them and scared them all away. Maybe Clarke and his friends weren't angry. It was discovered that the person who had shot and spoiled Clarke's sport was a city fellow. Fred Clarke mentioned this with disgust.

George Chip, who recently defeated Frank Klaus and won the middleweight belt, takes great pride in his championship. In fact, perhaps there is no one who glows over his success as does George. For years he has been ambitious to top off the championship and the realization of it has made him about the happiest little person you would wish to see. He has had cards printed with the whole title spelled out on them: "George Chip, Middleweight Champion of the World." He passes them around among his friends. Someone called him up on the phone at his hotel in Pittsburgh. "Who is this?" repeated George. "This is the middleweight champion of the world." Chip has always had a mobia for success in his chosen field and the achievement of the top pinnacle of it has made him immensely pleased with himself. He admits that he acts foolish over it, but he doesn't care. He enjoys it. There is nothing concealed about Chip in this matter. He is simply bubbling over with a large amount of insuppressible glee. And having worked hard for it no one would deny him the pleasure of it. Except Frank Klaus, maybe.

Frank A. Hinkley, who has been selected as head coach at Yale next year, is said by Walker Camp to be the greatest coach that ever played the game. Camp picks Hinkley as the All-American end for all time past and all time to come. There will never be his equal, thinks Walter. Hinkley was not a player of powerful physique. In fact in general appearance he was slender, almost frail, but seemed to have a faculty of getting anywhere the ball happened to be in uncanny manner. He would slip through the stoutest interference and get his man apparently without resistance. He seemed always to know just where the ball was going to be at any given moment. Particularly was he clever at adapting himself to any sort of offensive work. The other team tried to slip over. Hinkley goes to Yale as head coach with a wonderful record. If he is able to make as good a coach as he was a player there will be large joy at Yale.

MORAN PROVES PUGS CANNOT COME BACK

Owen Moran.

The passing of Owen Moran furnishes more proof that the word "comeback" should be eliminated from the fighting dictionary. Less than two years ago he was looked upon as one of the greatest lightweights in the game. Then he slipped. Fans believed that he could come back, but recent events have proved that he is down and out for good.

London Provided With New Seal. The official seal of the corporation of London was formally "broken" recently and a new one substituted. The old one had been in constant use for 532 years. It had only one predecessor, which was destroyed in 1381, because it was "too small, rude and ancient." The seal, which was used for the last time on the 1st, was of silver, about the size of a dollar. It is much worn and blurred. It probably was used 1,500 times annually, or 798,000 times altogether.

MODIFIED SINGLE TAX.

Houston, Tex., not long since adopted a modified system of single taxation, or taxation on land values, somewhat similar to that which has been in operation for a considerable time in certain municipalities of British Columbia and Alberta. In the case of the western Canadian experiments, and even in the face of local assertion of success, there still remains doubt among the opponents of the Henry George school of economics as to the ultimate outcome. It is not surprising, therefore, that even while conditions have seemingly greatly improved in Houston since the introduction of the new method of assessment and taxation, skeptics are still numerous and active. Recently the tax commissioner of Houston was asked to make an impartial statement of the situation for the enlightenment of those desirous, above all, of learning the facts.

The reply is interesting and illuminating. Under the new system, it appears, land is assessed at 70 per cent of its value and improvements at 25 per cent of reproduction cost, after allowing for depreciation. The effect of the additional burden placed upon land, as such, and of the relief thus afforded to improvement, the tax commissioner avers, has been to give a powerful stimulus to building. It has caused some owners of vacant land to sell to those intending to make improvements, as has been the case elsewhere under similar conditions. The system has been in operation not long enough, however, to judge as to its effect upon rentals, but in the opinion of the official referred to, reductions will result until the landlord shall receive from his land and buildings a rental which will equal the current rate of interest in the community.

the person who makes improvements. Nevertheless, the complaint is set up that by relieving those who put their money into improvements it favors one form of investment over another. The difference between the tax on land and the tax on improvements is, therefore, held to be inequitable. It may be conceded at once that further adjustment will be necessary before absolute equity in this matter shall be attained. But, taking into consideration all the benefits admittedly resulting from the adoption of modified single tax, the out-and-out single taxers will probably ask if the easier way to remove the remaining inequalities will not be by the adoption of the single tax system in its entirety. While the controversialists are debating the points at issue, however, the public will continue to watch the actual operation and progress of the Houston plan with great interest.

The Christian Science Monitor thus discusses the new tax method adopted by the Texas city. Wisconsin is grasping for all kinds of straws on the tax proposition, but without much prospect of relief. The only way to reduce the burden is to turn the rascals out, and this is a good year to do it.

A RELIC OF THE PAST.

"We hold no brief for the tango—but history is history. In 1913 the tango was prohibited at court balls by his Imperial Majesty Wilhelm II, and we sympathize with the oppressed. Consider the case of the waiters. In 1859 the Empress Frederick, then only Crown Princess of Prussia, was tripped by her waiting partner and fell to the floor. Queen Augusta, a fine flower of conservatism at all seasons, straightway (very straightway) forbade waiting at Berlin's court balls. When imported into England, this dance created a furor of enthusiasm and reprobation. Today old-timers call for the bringing back of this same Teuton waltz, purified by time and made tolerable by custom, as an essentially polite and decorous entertainment—though when it was new even Childe Harold was shocked at the embrace it involved—the partners 'like two cockchafers spitted on the same bodkin.' The American author of 'Fashion and Consequence, As Now Found in High Places and Low Places,' a diverting work published at Louisville in 1855, announced that the dance 'has corrupted every nation which has touched it—has ruined females by the thousand, supplying modesty with paint, without charge, smiling at virtue bleeding at countless pores.' That was the way they talked about the waltz two generations ago."

This is what history records concerning the tango, according to Collier's. If it shocked the sensibilities of the old world half a century ago, it must have been bad, and yet the American revised edition is not noted for modesty.

DIPLOMACY, POLITICS AND CONFUSION.

This is the caption the Christian Science Monitor places over an editorial in which it discusses the purely political appointments of the present democratic administration to diplomatic offices. It says: "Already, in the United States, the administration has had concrete proof of the inability of some of the politicians it sent to South and Central American capitals to perform their duties as diplomats. The amateurs are not equal to the duties forced upon them by contemporary conditions. Success in home politics is not proving to be the best training for carrying on negotiations at an exceptionally delicate stage of Pan-American evolution. Consequently it is said that further spoilation of the diplomatic service in this field will cease. Men who, under recent administrations, have been mastering knowledge of the language, culture and social ideals of rising republics south of the equator are said to be better appreciated now by the department of state than they were a few months ago. It has been found rather embarrassing not only to meet the sharp criticism of the independent press of the United States for the subtle attack on the merit system, but also to evade the logic of the evident breakdown of the political reward system as it is brought to the test of present precarious negotiations."

"We hope that there is basis for this report that experience has brought its customary admonitions. It is a costly form of tuition, but usually it is effective. The wonder, of course, will remain why either the President or Secretary Bryan ever assented to the reversion to the spoils theory. Authorities differ as to which one of them is more responsible. But dispute over this detail is inconsequential now compared with the intimidation that both men have seen light."

"If a new chapter in Pan-American relations is to be written by the present administration, along lines broadly sketched in the Mobile address, its details must be filled in by American ambassadors and ministers in capitals like Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Santiago and Lima, who at least must be able to escape an indictment similar to that brought by Count Lamsdorff against the diplomats of a certain national rival of Russia, of whom he said that they often did a thing so insane that it appeared a ruse."

OPTIMISTIC TALK.

Former Postmaster General John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, utters optimistic sentiments that fit in well with the New Year resolutions of many and deserve general endorsements. At the Union League club banquet in the course of a forceful address, Mr. Wanamaker said: "We have lots of room in this country for courage, energy and enthusiasm but there is no room for a panic. What the president wants and the country wants are strong men, unselfish and broad-visioned, able men to help him and his cabinet to lead the way. The motto for the new year is: 'Don't be blue.' The republican party, long in power, has full notice far back of the nation. The people with a tariff upon their minds are not likely to be blue."

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

A pure, healthful, Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

When buying an article of food you are entitled to know exactly what you are buying—its quality and ingredients.

If this information is refused don't buy it.

Some of the low grade baking powders are advertised, but the ingredients of the powders are scrupulously concealed.

A housekeeper would not use a baking powder containing alum if she knew it.

It is well when buying to examine the label on the can. Unless it shows the ingredient cream of tartar, don't buy it.

Dr. Price's baking powder is absolutely free from alum.

"The day of judgment came to the republican party in November, 1912. Good republicans, worn out by broken pledges, resolved to punish their party's deaf, dumb and blind leadership. They united against radicalism and deliberately joined forces with the democratic brethren in turning over the national government to Woodrow Wilson, who took office pledged distinctly to two objects of profound interest to the business world:

"1—A lowered tariff.
 "2—A revival of the monetary law to improve the old banking act of the civil war time."

"Less than one year both these great undertakings have been accomplished. All honor to the persistent president and the Democratic statesmen who have made their word."

All Job desired of his adversary was that he should write a book. All the politician wishes of his adversary is that he should write a letter.

Secretary Bryan has taken a great load off the minds of the American people by completing arbitration treaties with Switzerland, Denmark and Uruguay.

Uncle Joe Cannon says that everything bad in the country is due to the Democratic party. Is that the reason he offered to join it in case it carried out all its policies?

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

A WRONG VIEW.

In a jail of one of our big cities sat a man who was there because he would not pay to his wife the alimony which a court had ordered. He is a man of much intelligence and a master of the art music, by which he gains his livelihood.

To most men of brains imprisonment in a jail would be unbearable, no matter what the cause which put them there might be. But this man professed to bear it lightly, saying of his unhappy matrimonial experiences:

"If I could meet the right mate, matrimony would be one grand, sweet song. But where can you find such a wife? LIFE IS A CHANCE TO MAKE MISTAKES, and I have made mine."

"Putting aside consideration of his reflections on his wife, let us think for a while on his dictum."

"Life is a chance to make mistakes. Wrong, Mr. Music Master, totally wrong!"

Life is not a chance to make mistakes; it is a chance to correct them.

How can it be otherwise when confined life means continued opportunities for gaining wisdom for reflection on the past? As knowledge accumulates, power of correcting the errors of the past grows.

And with that power comes the faculty of avoiding other mistakes.

So, you see, life is not the opportunity of blotting itself with errors. It means having the time, the opportunity and the inclination to write chapter after chapter, as the story unfolds, with fewer and fewer blemishes.

The sheet is never totally free of them, of course, for it is not given to mortals to know perfection.

There is in some quarters too great a tendency to pardon slovenly work on the part of men actually able to do better, on the ground that "a man who never makes mistakes never makes good."

True, but only to a limited extent.

For the habit of making mistakes grows on one. You need not be meticulously careful, of course, to dot every "i" and cross every "t," but you should take pride in the carefully finished work that shows close attention to details.

You remember—

"Perfection is made up of trifles, but perfection is not a trifle."

There is no such thing as perfection in any branch of human endeavor. But we can all strive toward it.

Daily Thought.

Semi-invalidism is the curse of women of the present day. Many a one is not satisfied unless she is continually consulting a specialist about something or other. Much of this impaired health is due, in the absence of organic disease, to want of proper rest from excitement, proper holiday from work and often, also, to insufficient food.—Florence Wardell.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE MADE A PROVISION TO BOYS' RELEASE

Two Youths Arraigned in Judge Maxfield's Court on Charge of Attempted Burglary.

Upon their promise to attend some church regularly during the next two months, Clarence Hirsch and Charles Mikes, two boys whose homes are on Franklin street, were released by Judge Maxfield this morning and the cases against them for attempted burglary were adjourned for sixty days.

Judge Maxfield stipulated no special church that the youths should attend but insisted that the formation of the church-going habit be one of the provisions of their part of the agreement for a long adjournment of the case. "I also adjourn this case with the understanding that you shall go home nights not later than nine o'clock and that you must not hang around pool halls up to that hour. As sure as you are out late nights or cause any trouble, I shall secure your apprehension at once," said Judge Maxfield.

Maxfield and Preston were arrested by Patrolman Sam Brown after three o'clock Thursday morning. He found them prowling in the rear of Gibson's pool hall, using a flashlight. It is alleged, to break into the place through the back window. When Brown came upon them one of the boys took hasty flight, but the other was taken into custody yesterday. They told the police conflicting stories, and were unable to explain why they were not at home at such an hour.

The wood work on one of the windows to the Gibson pool hall had been broken with a stone, which indicated that an attempt had been made to enter the place.

The cases against the three Milton Junction men charged with bootlegging, which were on the municipal court calendar for this morning, were adjourned. The actions against H. Hartman and D. N. Haviland will be tried on Friday, Jan. 9, at ten o'clock and the case of Charles Lumm is set for Saturday morning, January 10, at ten o'clock.

ELKS' CARNIVAL WAS FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Managing Directors Announce That Big Undertaking Warranted Their Efforts from Financial Standpoint.

According to T. J. Murphy, one of the producing directors of the Elks' Carnival that held away on Tuesday and Wednesday last at the Elks' hall, was a financial success. Mr. Murphy said today: "There were seven hundred paid admissions on Tuesday and thirteen hundred on Wednesday. Aside from the entrance fee charged the numerous shows did a hand since business and every one appeared to enjoy the fun and merriment that went to make up the whole affair. The closing hours of the old year were fittingly observed by special efforts on the part of the various entertainers whose forces were augmented by the Winniegar Brothers Company, who arrived at the hall shortly after eleven, and it was one o'clock before the crowds began to leave the entertainment. The Elks' and the speller made their last tack. Taking it all in all it was a success. Miss Frances Granger was elected Queen of the Carnival and received a handsome gold watch, her total vote being 2,658, and Miss Gertrude McGinley was second prize winner, receiving a handsome gold bracelet. Her vote was 2,680."

SANE CELEBRATION ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Saloons Close Promptly at Eleven and Hilarity Was Entirely Unobjectionable Says Chief of Police.

Janesville was in line with Chicago and other cities where the sane celebration of New Year's eve was cause for remark. Chief of Police Ransom expressed his gratification today at the orderliness and general good nature which characterized the crowd of celebrators on Wednesday night and remarked especially concerning the promptness with which the retail liquor stores observed the eleven o'clock closing restriction. "I made the rounds of the city shortly before eleven o'clock," said the chief, "and in several there were places actually closed before eleven. At the top of the belt patrons were driven out the doors locked and the screens removed. There were very few arrests made for drunkenness. Judge Maxfield did not find it necessary to hold a night court and there was no rioting or unruly conduct today for over-celebrating the new year's arrival."

LOCAL POLICE SEARCH FOR TWO AT SYLVAN WHO ESCAPED WEDNESDAY

Janesville police received word yesterday afternoon from the officials of the Waukesha asylum that an inmate named Frank Marchand had escaped from that institution New Year's Eve and it was thought he might have tried to make his way into Illinois by way of Janesville. All the night officers of the Janesville force were given a description of the fugitive. Marchand, by the description given is half Indian and half negro. He is forty years of age, weighs one hundred and sixty pounds and is six feet tall. He has light hair and is dressed in a black coat and blue jacket and wore overalls.

PATIENTS PLEASED AT HOLIDAY GIFTS

Artificial Flowers Distributed to County Insane on New Year's Bring Pathetic Happiness.

Patients at the Rock county asylum for the insane, were made happy on New Year's by the distribution in each of the wards, of artificial flowers, the thoughtful gift of the ladies in the millinery department of the Simpson store. "Excited laughter, ecstatic admiration and in some cases, quiet tears indicated the unbounded pleasure which the colored bits of cloth and paper brought. Some pinned the flowers on the walls of their rooms, others put them in their hair and some were content to carry them about with them throughout the day."

The New Year's holiday was enjoyed at the asylum with a fine dinner for the patients, after which they enjoyed games and music provided and directed by Superintendent and Mrs. Barless and the attendants.

Mrs. Barless wishes to thank the ladies of the Simpson store for their much-appreciated kindness, and also Mrs. Frank W. Van Kirk for the twenty potted plants which brought so much pleasure to the ladies of the county home at Christmas time.

TAKE NUPTIAL VOWS ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Wedding of Miss Bess V. Keller and Alvin Peterson Solemnized Thursday at High Noon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Jan. 2.—Yesterday at high noon a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Miss Florence Child, when Miss Bess V. Keller and Alvin Peterson were united in marriage by Rev. T. W. North, the ring service being used.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Murphy of Stoughton sang a series of three songs, "Elsker Dig," a Norwegian love song, "Because I Love You," and a German love song. As the bridal party descended the stairway she played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and throughout the ceremony soft music was rendered.

Miss Helen Peterson, sister of the groom acted as bride's maid, and Harry Baker of Osgeman, Minnesota, attended the groom. Immediately after the ceremony a four course dinner was served by the Lila, Metta and Georgia Gifford, Theresa and Grace McDougall. The beautiful home of Miss Child was very artistically decorated with pink and white roses and smilax.

The bride was dressed in a beautiful gown of white satin, her tulle veil being in bonnet effect, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lace gown over white satin and carried a round bouquet of pink roses.

Only the immediate relatives were present at the wedding, those from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. James Chapman, California; Mr. and Mrs. S. William Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson, Soldiers Grove, and Mrs. Carl Peterson, La Crosse.

After an extended wedding trip through the southern states the young couple will make their home at Soldiers Grove, where the groom is a prosperous young lawyer.

The annual T. A. & B. card party and smoker took place at their hall last evening, Frank Boss carrying off the honors. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Moen and daughter left for California yesterday, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henrich are expecting the arrival of a baby girl, born Jan. 1st.

Miss Marion Doty spent yesterday with friends in Janesville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Atwell, who have been visiting relatives at Stevens Point for the past week, returned home Wednesday.

Miss Alice Nichols went to Chicago this morning to be the guest of Miss Anna Sughrue for a week.

T. B. Earl and son Kenneth returned from Milwaukee yesterday.

Twenty couple enjoyed a "watch party" in the K. P. rooms Wednesday night. Dancing and card playing formed the amusement. At midnight refreshments were served.

Twelve ladies pleasantly surprised Mrs. Girard at her home Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being in honor of her birthday. Delightful refreshments were served.

About twenty-five high school couples attended a dance at the T. A. & B. hall Wednesday evening. Miss Brunner of the high school faculty chaperoned the party and Miss Mae Nichols furnished music.

Mrs. Mary Jorje returns today to Edgewood, where she is attending school.

Miss Gertrude Nichols of Stoughton is spending a few days with relatives here.

Mrs. Henry Kaufman is spending the day in Janesville.

Mrs. Wentworth and daughter Adele are spending the day in Janesville.

Mrs. Freeman Lyons is spending the day in Janesville.

Roy Horelin visited relatives here yesterday.

Miss Mida Hubbell and Marie Hubbell are spending the day in Janesville.

Screwing up the Eyes.

Disasters to the beauty of a child's expression is the habit of screwing up the eyes. The trick points very plainly to defective vision and calls aloud for a visit to an oculist. The visit must not be delayed, for ugly wrinkles around the eyes is the least evil of this defect. A short-sighted child is severely handicapped when it begins in school life, and neglected myopia leads to serious eye trouble in later life. Properly prescribed spectacles are all that is required to end this particular trouble.

She Was Long-Headed.

He asked her in yearning, pleading tones if he could not give her an engagement ring as a Christmas present. But she comes of a thrifty and far-seeing family, which never loses its presence of mind. "No, darling," she softly whispered, "I will take the ring now. Let Christmas bring its happy surprises, just as usual."—Lippincott's.

CARRIED IT OUT WELL

By H. T. GRAHAM.

"Tut, tut, Birdie; what is it all about?"

Big George Sampson sat down on the lounge where he had found his wee bit of a wife crying in the sofa pillows and gently lifted her to him.

"Isn't the house party a success?" he asked, gently, "or has the cook gone wrong again?"

"Will Cummings is a pig-headed, obstinate brute, and I hate him," remarked the young wife, irrelevantly. "And as for Carrie Hepburn, I will never speak to her after this party is over."

And she stamped her pretty foot spitefully on the rug and jabbed the tears from her eyes viciously.

"Will Cummings—Carrie Hepburn," repeated Sampson. "Why—what—how—?" and his voice died away in hopeless bewilderment.

"They are perfectly hateful," replied his wife. "Don't you see, you great goose. I got up this party and went to all the trouble and have endured a whole week with a house full of people when I might have had you all to myself—and why?"

"Bless me if I know," replied Sampson.

"Why, it was all to get Will and Carrie together and make a match—don't you see?"

"You're a darling," he whispered, holding her tight. "Well, what's gone wrong?"

"Everything," she replied, the tears again starting to her eyes. "That hateful Will Cummings will not even look at Carrie. He flirts with all the other girls and goes fishing with the men, but I can't get him into the same room with Carrie, excepting at meals, and then he changes seats with somebody or talks to somebody on the other side or across the table. And the worst of it is when by the most patient and deep-laid diplomacy I do get them together—as I have done several times—then Carrie, the mean thing, spoils it all and freezes up and drives him away or goes away herself. It's too hateful for anything and I cannot understand it at all."

"Come, come," said Sampson. "Don't take it so hard. What of it, anyway? We've had a jolly week and what does it matter to you if Cummings and Miss Hepburn don't happen to fancy each other as you supposed. The whole confounded lot of 'em are not worth the tears you have shed today. Pull yourself together and let's go down to dinner. This is the last evening, you know. The party breaks up tomorrow."

Mrs. Sampson went into her room to go through those motions by which women eradicate the evidences of worry and trouble and wear and tear. Presently she emerged looking fresh and serene.

Her big husband looked at her with mingled wonder and admiration, and together they went down to greet their friends. At the table Sampson noted for the first time during the week that Miss Hepburn and Cummings were seated next each other. Now that he noticed it, he remembered that they had been so seated since the party convened. Presently Cummings began a series of light passages with Miss Gray, the big blonde daughter of the Chicago banker, and presently, in a manner half bantering, half gallant, proposed to young Mr. Carson, one of the budding mustache and illiac perfume, who sat next to her, that they change seats, for which Mr. Carson replied with the dignity becoming his youth that he was well satisfied with his seat and his neighbors.

Sampson glanced at Miss Hepburn. She was absorbed in a discussion with Professor Hedley, the spectacled specialist on her left, as to the probable ultimate result of the gradual cooling of the interior of the earth. Cummings turned at once to Mrs. Harriet Kathryn Wells-Preston on his right and plunged into active discussion on woman's rights.

Sampson glanced at his wife and smiled indulgently. "This is one time Birdie was fooled," he said to himself. "Cummings and Carrie don't care a tinker's malediction for themselves."

After dinner Sampson suggested to his wife that they go for a stroll.

Just without the edge of the circle of light thrown from the glowing windows, in the shadow of a great park, they ran right into another couple. The man's arms were around the girl's slender waist, and he strained her to him with passionate strength. Her arms were tight about his neck.

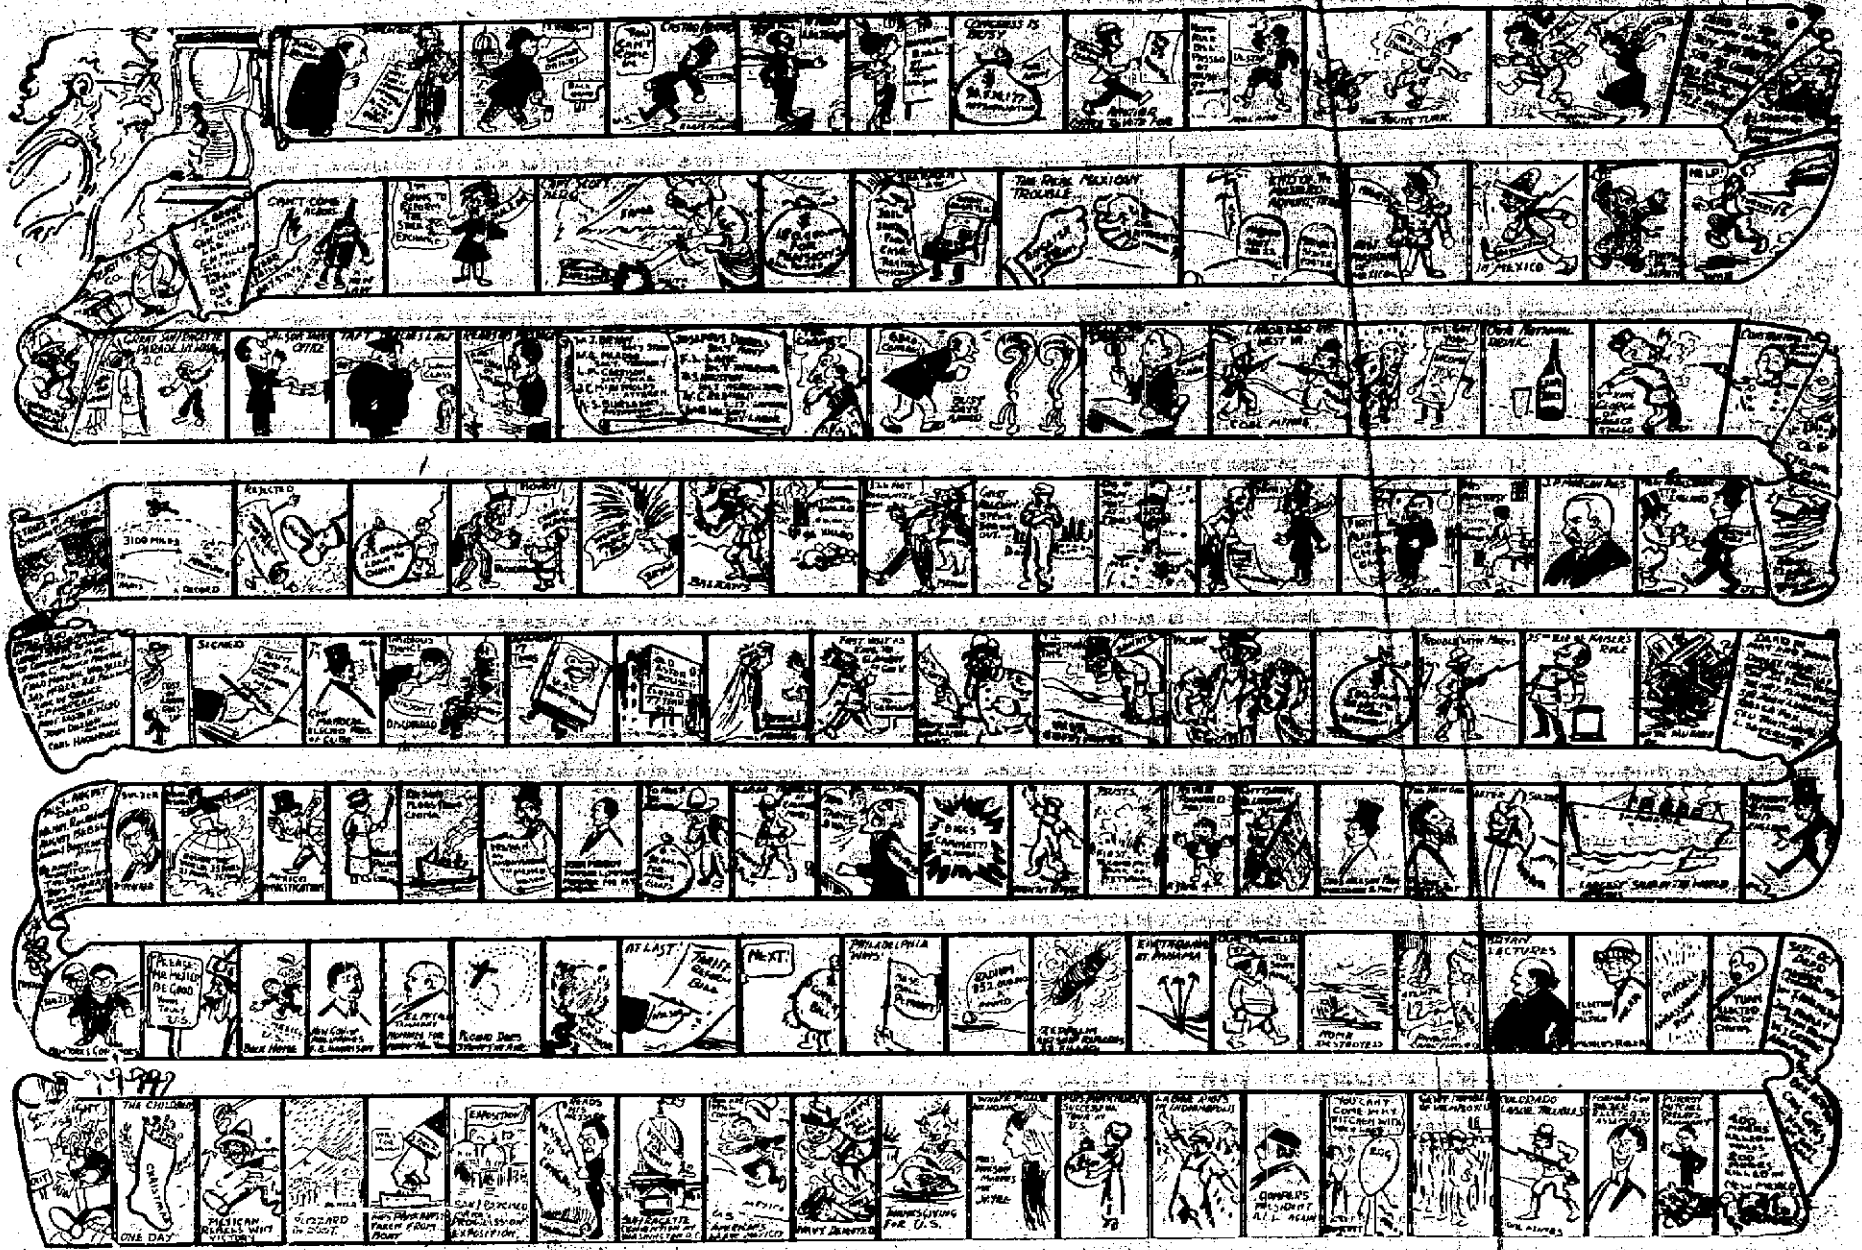

Sampson and his wife started back in confusion. The other couple broke apart with reddened faces and turned to their host and hostess. There was a cry of surprise from Mrs. Sampson—apoplectic symptoms on the part of Sampson.

The other couple were Will Cummings and Carrie Hepburn.

THE SEISMOGRAPH

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swarth."

THE seismograph is an ingenious instrument by which an earthquake is enabled to register like a traveling man, whenever it is on the road.

This instrument is very complicated, and is so intelligent that the slightest shudder of the earth's surface is recorded. If a powder mill has exploded, or a heavy body has fallen violently during the night, the owner of a seismograph would know it in the morning by looking at the record. It is said that when President Taft attempted to reduce the tariff, seismographs recorded the result all over the world.

Sometimes an earthquake will travel for thousands of miles without disturbing the lightest sleepers. But the seismograph is on the job and in the morning after the papers have announced its findings, thousands of citizens remember that during the night the bric-a-brac on the mantel tinkled loudly and the bed swayed like a ship in a heavy sea.

The seismograph is very valuable to scientists, but it would be more valuable to humanity if it could announce the presence of an earthquake before it had performed. The seismograph gives a man warning after a brick house has fallen on him and when he doesn't need it. It is as dilatory as an election result. Many a proud statesman would still be holding the reins of government if he could have taken a hint from an election result before said election happened.

We must, as a people, leap eagerly into the task of perfecting the seismograph. If it can be induced to act as the press agent of an earthquake, instead of its historian, a contented people will be able to leave their homes before it is too late and go fishing while the earthquake performs.

My Guarantee of Satisfaction

really means every Suit, Overcoat or Trousers you buy, must satisfy you. There is no limit to that guarantee except to the limit of your satisfaction. You know what satisfies you, and whatever you want I will give you. I judge by your idea—not mine. I insist upon assuming the responsibility for your satisfaction, from the time you receive a garment, until your profitable experience again prompts you to entrust your appearance to me.

You cannot get anything from me but good ALL WOOL fabrics. The careful manner in which we tailor, demands materials of the best quality. Your requirements cannot be too exacting. If a coat front should show the least sign of breaking, or lose its original good shape, I want to replace it. The linings, too, will wear as long as the cloth, and I will replace any garment returned to us—FREE.

Positively a perfect fit is guaranteed you, or I do not want you to take it, as I would be the loser. Your satisfaction is my success. That's why I prefer to have a suit returned rather than retained, if it does not reflect credit upon you and myself.

Man's Thoughts VS. God's Thoughts

By REV. J. H. RALSTON

Secretary of Correspondence Department
Meady Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Is 57—"Let the unrighteous man forsake his thoughts."

think ye of Christ? There must be some reconciliation between this claim of reason and the text.

In the first place we must have in mind the person receiving the appeal—he is unrighteous. He may be contrasted with the wicked man referred to in the same verse, but the matter of his unrighteousness, or unregenerateness is the thing now to be held in mind. Then we must consider the sphere of thought. The man is not asked to forsake all his thinking, for in some things his thoughts are correct, indeed, more correct than those of the righteous man. Those things belong to the unregenerate state and he thinks rightly on them. Ministers sometimes preach to their congregations on subjects that are not spiritual, and many that are in the pews know far more about the subject than the preacher, and often smile at his ignorance. The unrighteous man thinks quite properly on finance, commerce and politics, but when it comes to spiritual things he is out of his realm. Here the person who may be of very limited intellectual attainments may be his instructor. The African or Korean may know far more of spiritual things, because born again, than the educated European. Thus we find that the appeal is to the unrighteous person, and the sphere of thought is the spiritual. Here is where the unrighteous man is asked not to think. And why?

The words of the lord, "My thoughts are not your thoughts" imply that there is some unfavorable comparison between the thoughts of the lord and those of unregenerate man. God's thoughts are certainly always right. If this be true, man's thoughts are certainly wrong. When man stands naked before God this fact will be demonstrated to the confusion of multitudes.

We may also say the unrighteous man should forsake his thoughts because they have been shown to be usually wrong. That man has some quite correct thoughts in the spiritual sphere may be conceded, or responsibility would be lessened, but the law of his thinking is wrong. Habitually his thoughts are wrong. A comparison of man's thoughts and those of the lord as given in the Bible clearly demonstrates this. When Jesus was on earth he said to the Pharisees that they thought in their prayers they should be heard for their much speaking, that is, a prayer 20 minutes long was twice as good as one ten minutes long. The Bible declares that men thought God to be as one of themselves. Simon Magus thought that the gift of the holy spirit could be had for money, and the apostle pronounced a fearful curse on him. He has successors in these days. Naaman furnishes us an illustration of how men think as to the conditions of redemption. He thought that the prophet Elisha would come out and call on his God and pass his hand over the place of the leprosy—but nothing of the kind. He was simply instructed by the prophet, who did not seem overwhelmed with the great Syrian's magnificence, to sit seven times in the Jordan, and his leish should be as that of a little child. How squarely are man's thoughts on redemption opposed to God's simple requirement to repent and believe!

Again, as long as man is unregenerate he has a principle in him that vitiate all right thinking on spiritual subjects. Here it may be said sin lieth at the door. The stream cannot be pure if the fountain is foul. One of the tests of a man's regenerate state is his changed thinking on spiritual subjects. He sees things differently, a new world has been opened to him.

Another reason for forsaking his thoughts is that he is wasting time in doing that which has already been done, even conceding that he thinks rightly. One may ask in wonder, am I not to think this religious problem out for myself? No. It has already been thought out, and the record is in the Bible. Some one may say this intimates ready-made thinking, and ready-made things are to be suspected. We do not suspect a suit of clothes ready to be put on if purchased at a reputable store, nor a piece of furniture, nor prepared foods. This is an age of ready-made things, and if we have the guaranty that the maker is reliable we may be content. God has thought all these things out. No man could have done it.

New Hope for the Scaled. An Australian has obtained a United States patent for a process for transplanting living hair on bald heads.

Changeable. The cold snap comes. With perfect ease I jump out of my B. V. D's. I sneeze, I tremble in elbows and knees And seek the sterner woolen stuff That's sharp and rough, And weighs enough. Then suddenly—sudden storm. The weather turns exceeding warm. I tear. I swear. I put the air. And curse all woolen underwear. It is one of those sudden thaws And I must hasten back to gauze, I put the woolen stuff away. The weather's fine almost a day. When suddenly there comes a freeze And snow and sleet are in the breeze. And then I seize My B. V. D's And cast them off and gaily pull Upon my frame the good old wool. Then in five minutes like as not The day is hot. The weather's changeable I declare, But not more so than underwear.

How to Dodge H. C. of L. This is absolutely no use in worrying about the high cost of living, so far as mere food is concerned. We are able to offer a few suggestions. We have tried them and we are in a position to state that none of them is any good. Five cents worth of codfish will make five meals for a family of seven, providing you make it in eighteen gallons of gravy. Corn meal may be prepared in twenty-five different ways and it is a very valuable food substance. Fifteen cents worth of cornmeal will feed the entire population of a Keeley institute or a house of correction for three days. Have you ever thought of tripe? A nickel's worth of tripe will feed three persons and there is practically no wear out of it. A man can chew two cents worth of tripe all day. Although potatoes have joined the aristocracy they are still within the reach of families with incomes exceeding $5,000. One potato if properly mashed can be made to serve eighteen persons. The more you stir mashed potatoes, the more mashed potatoes you have. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Why Society Editors Are Dippy. Don't forget to put it in about the real life paradise plume my daughter Effie wore.

We would like to have you publish a full list of the wedding presents. They are simply magnificent. "Just wait out in the hall until the party is over and I will give you all the details."

"Don't forget to say the table was decorated with syringas."

"My husband and I are going to Chicago to grand opera. But please don't mention it in the paper. That is what I called you up."

"Be sure and put my husband's middle name in it. He is very particular about that. So that there will be no mistake, I am enclosing one of his engraved calling cards. I gave them to him for his birthday and he always leaves them at home in my desk."

Signs of the Times. A child born in Ohio weighed 27 pounds. That is an early start for the presidency, even for an Ohio child.

When it comes to magic lantern exhibitions, Uncle Sam will appear in two different guises. The horse is gradually coming into his own. They are now making automobile tires out of his hair.

Kaiser Wilhelm says: "A real man wears a mustache." Colonel Roosevelt will doubtless agree with him, but it is an awful slam at Wilson and Bryan.

Eggs. The goose that laid the golden egg, long and in song and story, will have to jump down off her peg And leave her niche of glory. The ordinary barnyard hen Can beat her feat eight times in ten.

Nobody now wants eggs of gold. For them no one will forage, But shelly ones are quickly sold. Even when they're from cold storage.

In fact, a really fresh laid egg Would tempt to crime most any yegg.

In the Campaign of Life. Life is a campaign, not a battle, and has its defeats as well as its victories.—Donn Platt.

HOG MARKET HIGHER IN TOTAL RECEIPTS

Cattle Receipts Are Decreased Considerably—Sheep Still in Demand, With Market Strong.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 2.—The Chicago market has few changes in today's statistics. The fall in cattle receipts is the biggest change. Sheep are remaining steady and strong. The prices for today are as follows:

Cattle—Receipts 4,000; market steady, shade higher, no fancy offered. Heavy 6.70@6.90; Texas steers 6.90@7.50; Western steers 6.20@7.85; stockers and feeders 5.00@7.47; cows and heifers 3.50@8.60; calves 7.00@11.40.

Hogs—Receipts 23,000; market strong, mostly 10 cents above Wednesday's average; light 7.10@8.10; mixed 7.10@8.15; heavy 7.15@8.20; rough 7.15@8.25; pigs 5.75@7.15; bulk of sales 7.25@8.10.

Sheep—Receipts 16,000; market steady and strong; native 4.70@6.10; western 4.75@6.10; yearlings 5.35@7.10; lambs native 6.70@8.20; western 6.75@8.20.

Butter—Lower; creameries 22@25.

GOVERNMENT TEST OF IMPORTED TEAS IMPROVES QUALITY

Expert Tester Able to Detect Faintest Coloring or Poor Quality Tea Shipped to American Housewives.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Jan. 2.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has in his employ a young man, who is a hard drinker. Moreover, the secretary knows that this young man imbibes freely, and strange as it may seem, pays him because he is a good drinker.

The young man in question is George Mitchell of Washington. But before you form an opinion of this young man and his employer, you should know that he drinks nothing stronger than tea—and that his position is "supervising tea examiner" of the Treasury Department.

Up to date he has never been known to test less than four gallons of tea a day. He could tell in his sleep the difference between a cup of Ping Suey Foochow Oolong, or a cup of Green, Scented, Oriental Pekoe, or a cup of Oolong, or a cup of Oolong, or a cup of Oolong.

Mitchell has seven men in his charge located in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Paul, Tacoma, San Francisco and Honolulu. Like Mitchell, these men test several gallons of tea a day to determine whether the brand which they serve at 5 p. m. is going to fill her cheer immortalized in literature, or with indigo blue, tale, gypsum or barium sulphate.

Mitchell has seven men in his charge located in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Paul, Tacoma, San Francisco and Honolulu. Like Mitchell, these men test several gallons of tea a day to determine whether the brand which they serve at 5 p. m. is going to fill her cheer immortalized in literature, or with indigo blue, tale, gypsum or barium sulphate.

Tea is the one article of food which is measured according to a set standard. Twelve grades are selected yearly. Then every chest of tea that enters the United States must conform to these standards. The tea drinking determines the quality and fitness for consumption.

The test for coloring and chemical "facing" is the simple device of Dr. E. Albert Head of the Department of Agriculture's bureau of chemistry. She while testing some teas that the sediment from her samples left a blue mark on paper. She rubbed the tea with a knife. It left a blue smudge. This was further tested, and found to indicate invariably the presence of indigo coloring.

Then she investigated further and found that a black paper would indicate the presence of such "facing" or adulterants, as talc, gypsum, barium sulphate. Now the "Read test" is officially recognized by the supervising tea examiner as the best and simplest method of determining the presence of impurities. All that is really left for the examiners is to taste for quality.

Moreover, tea buyers abroad learned that they could test the product quite simply by the "Read test," and they began to sample the goods before they ordered them shipped to this country.

Consequently since the middle of this year, there has been practically no rejections of teas at American ports. They have all been pure and in entire conformity with the federal regulations.

Mitchell shows that at the close of the fiscal year, ending June 30, 95, 539,667 pounds of tea were imported, as against 64,677,880 the previous year. Of this quantity 1,461,787 pounds were rejected either because it contained coloring or facing matter. But the simple but effective system of the woman chemist is changing that, and next year Mitchell expects his report to be almost free of rejections for adulterations.

SCOTTISH RITE TEMPLE TO COST $2,000,000

On the Avenue of the Presidents in Washington, D. C., stands this imposing new Scottish rite temple which when completed and furnished will have cost approximately $2,000,000. On the exterior there are 33 columns representing the 33 degrees of the Scottish rite masonry. The first floor of the building contains a room for each state delegation, and on the second floor is the large auditorium. The construction of this building is comparable with that of the best buildings in the world.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHEN CANDOR IS NEEDED.

IF YOU should borrow some small sum of money from a friend and with the best intentions in the world should forget all about the debt, would you want your friend to let it go or remind you of it?

Chorus of answers, "Remind me of it!"

Well, then, if you should lend a friend some small sum of money and he, with the best intentions in the world, should forget all about the debt, would you remind him of it or let it go?

Chorus of answers, "Let it go, of course."

Apparently, this is one of the cases where the rule of "As Ye Would" is considered to have no force.

Once upon a time a very funny thing along this line happened. Two young girls—we'll call them Eleanor and Grace, because these were not their names—were in town shopping. Eleanor felt short of money, and of course Grace promptly opened her purse to her friend, who dipped into it to the extent of $1, after ascertaining that it would not embarrass Grace and promising to return it the next day at church. The next day was a rainy Sunday; neither of the girls went to church; the debt was not paid, and, as Grace happened to have plenty of money just then, was forgotten by both.

A week or two later Eleanor telephoned to Grace to remind her that it was the birthday of a mutual friend for whom they usually bought a gift together. Grace was too busy to go in town and asked Eleanor if she would buy the gift, promising to settle with her later. It was just before the holiday season, and the rush of presents, buying and other preoccupations, she promptly forgot all about the matter. But when her money began to run low—as money is apt to do just before Christmas—she did remember something to remind her of it and she said to herself that, of course, a dollar was a little matter and didn't make much difference to her, but she DID think it was very careless of Eleanor.

In the meantime Eleanor, who remembered Grace's debt but not her own, was reflecting, "And to think I called her up and reminded her about that present and then went to the bother of buying it, and she hasn't even paid her share! Of course, a dollar isn't much, but it's the PRINCIPLE of the thing that counts."

Wasn't that an odd situation to come about for lack of a little candor? Each girl felt a bit aggrieved. Neither had any right to be. Each girl felt she was losing a dollar. Neither was losing a cent. Both girls would have infinitely preferred to be reminded of their debt. Neither girl would have reminded the other of her debt for anything less than wild horses.

Such a silly situation and all for the lack of a little candor! Would I have done otherwise? I wonder. There are many things which are easier to preach about than to practice, and I suspect this is one of the occasions when "It were easier to teach twenty what were good to be done than be one of the twenty to follow my own teaching."

Yolk of one egg, one-half cup of milk, two cups of flour, three tea-spoonfuls of baking powder, one cup of currants mixed with one tea-spoonful of flour. Cream the butter and add the sugar gradually, and the egg well beaten. Then add the milk, flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder, and currants. Bake forty minutes in buttered and floured cake pan.

Potato Rolls—Select large potatoes, wash, pare and soak. Shape in balls with a French vegetable cutter. Cook in boiling salted water until soft. Drain and let stand to dry off. Turn into a hot serving dish, pour over cream and butter, sprinkle generously with paprika and send to the table at once.

Pate a Chienx—Two and one-half tea-spoonfuls of milk, one-half tea-spoonful of lard, one-half tea-spoonful of butter, one-half tea-spoonful of salt, one-quarter cup of flour, one egg. Beat the butter, lard and milk to boiling point, add flour and salt, and stir vigorously. Remove from the fire, add the egg unbeaten and the rest of the ingredients. Cook and drop small pieces from the tip of a tea-spoon into deep hot fat. Fry until brown and crisp and drain on brown paper.

Oyster Gumbo—One pint of oysters, four cups of fish stock, one-quarter cup of butter, one tea-spoonful of chopped onion, one-half can of okra, one-third can of tomatoes, salt, pepper. Clean, pick over and wash oysters, drain and add oyster liquor to fish stock. Cook the onion five minutes in one-half the butter—add the stock. Then add okra, tomatoes heated and drained from some of their liquor, oysters and the remaining butter, with salt and pepper. Fish stock is the liquor obtained by covering the head, tail, skin, bones and small quantity of flesh adhering to the bones of the fish with cold water, bringing slowly to boiling point and simmering thirty minutes and straining.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

HERE is no friend like the old friend who has shared our morning days. No greeting like his welcome, no homage like his praise. Fame is the scentless sunflower, with gaudy crown of gold; But friendship is the breathing rose, with sweets in every fold.

—ANON.

GENERALITIES.

To get orange flavor, grate a piece of loaf sugar over the rind. Several pieces will contain a large amount of the oil of the rind.

Add a cupful of chopped prunes to brown bread and add to the nutritive value of the loaf.

Cut hot cake and ginger bread with a fork and it will be light and fluffy. To keep a thick frosting in place on the top of the cake, wrap around it a double thickness of well-buttered paper, which extends up an inch or more; then pour in the frosting. When one wishes to use two kinds of frosting, as white and chocolate, on top, this is an easy way to do it.

Outside leaves of cabbage which are good may be rolled tightly and when cut with a sharp knife make a pretty garnish for a salad. The little curls thus made may be crisped and freshened by standing in iced water.

Keep a pair of stout shears in the kitchen for cutting up raisins and figs, as well as other foods, saving the chopping bowl and the meat grinder for more important work.

Keep a bit of lemon in the soap dish to remove stains from the hands and nails. A tomato will answer the purpose as well.

Lemon juice and salt with the aid of sunlight, will remove rust stains on linen.

To remove cocoa and chocolate stains from table linen soak overnight in cold water, then pour boiling water from a good height, to add force, through the stains.

Always let the cold water run from the faucet a few moments in the morning, or after it has stood in the pipes, as it is often impure from the sediment in them.

Bread crumbs, to be used in dishes, will be better seasoned if turned into a dish with a little melted butter, then add seasonings and mix well.

Clean currants by rubbing well in flour, then wash and dry them and they will be ready for use.

A most appetizing salad may be made from salmon, flake it carefully not allowing it to be mussy, add a chopped sour pickle, a bit of cocoanut and any boiled dressing liked. Serve on lettuce leaves.

LATEST DRESS STYLE OF BRILLIANT COLOR

Best Bet of Dame Fashion is Coy Pant-let From Knee Down—Ankles of Fur a Late Whim!

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Jan. 2.—Yes, you meet them at every turn, or perhaps one should say every curve. The coy pant-let is now fashion's best bet. The regulation manner of panting, according to Dame Fashion, used to be from the chest on, but Dame Fashion has changed all that and it is now the smart thing to do your panting from the knee down.

Quite the most startling peach of a pair is shown in flesh color crepe de chine and lace. These ruffles of the knee down, completely veiled in frothing ruffles of shadow lace, are attached to pink ribbon covered garters which fit just over a dimpled knee and there you are. Others have ruffles of chine edged with narrow lace and garnished with sprays of tiny rosebuds.

These new knee panties are to be worn over tights, but for those desiring the straightway pantlets from the waist down, dainty models are shown in frothing ruffles of shadow lace, edged with an elastic and lace outstanding trim. The trim has certainly been taking one step on the downward path after another. Starting at the knee, it fell to the wrists, then to the waist (for what is a tunic but a trim) from there to the knee and now we have 'em at your feet.

While you are looking at the feet of fashion it is fitting to mention a chic new ankle of which we were lately by a well known New Yorker. You will readily infer that this anklet in fur adds a very "fuzzy wuzzy" touch to a fur trimmed costume as you get to a furtive peek at it now and then through the omnipresent slit.

It seems to be a lost art never to turn a hair for showdays there is a mad rush of color to the head. If you are wearing a violet green gown it is not enough that your slippers and stockings carry out the color scheme; dear me no. Your hair also must have its little dash of lavender.

If your frock is of a shade the mere fact that your hair is blue also won't put the blue ribbon of approval upon you. Your coiffure as well must have the desired cerulean tinge. All this is accomplished by a nice collection of thin wigs in all the smart shades. But if you are simply dying to be fashionable then choose a bright shade of cerise for a pink hair is the pink of fashionable perfection.

The fluffy neck and wrist frills are now being replaced by frills starched to the stiffness of cardboard and ironed out to irreproachable smoothness. Very severe and masculine and tailor-made they are and bound to be beloved of Suffragettes. Most of them are round and bare out stiffly above the coat collar and below the coat sleeve while others take the shape of the collars affected by Dumas and Voltaire. With these the wrist frills are absent.

If you have a last season's gown of Charles James or a crop of hair that needs refurbishing up, the addition of two violet ruffles midway of the skirt above the knees will transform it into a 1913 model. These soft velvet ruffles are indeed charming additions to an after-moon gown and are quite the latest of the late hints from that dear Paris.

Ostrich feathers are coming into their own again and with the law as well as fashion on their side are selling alighted and birds of paradise on the wing. Almost every chaparran wears aloft an ostrich plume of brilliant hue, they crest the waves of the evening coiffure and even the low cut evening headdresses are edged with their airy fronds.

Hats, still continue in their dilapidated proportions and even with the decollete costume they refuse to give way to the large hat, a la Gainsborough. Some of the little close fitting models of fur and velvet are so snug that, particularly when of brown fur, they give the startling impression that the wearer is bareheaded. It is rather an unfortunate fashion for the moon-faced lady whose countenance, built on broad and sweeping lines, of course she must be in the mode, with the result that many is the pint bonnet on a quart physiognomy.

PRIMA DONNA WANTS TO BE FREE AGAIN

Mme. Schumann-Heink.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, the singer, has instituted divorce proceedings in Chicago against her husband, William Rapp. Desertion is the charge. They were married in May, 1905, and the contract since has made Chicago her residence. Rapp is his wife's junior by 14 years. He is a lawyer and a man of means. Mrs. Rapp has been married twice before and has eight children.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me how to make beads from starch, salt and water?

(2) How do you make nut fudge?

READER: (1) Here is a cup of very hot water. Dissolve in it one-half cup of cornstarch in half-cup water. With this mixture, make a very hot water. (2) A very little makes a delicate salmon pink. Blue is made by adding a few drops of blue beads. Remove salt from fire and add to cornstarch solution. Be sure salt is very hot. Work with the hands into a smooth paste. Wrap in damp cloth and pinch off little pieces to roll into beads. String on hatpin or large needle and thread, to dry.

(2) Chocolate Nut Fudge—One and one-half pounds brown sugar, one-quarter pound, baker's chocolate, one-quarter cup butter, one-half cup milk. Boil twenty minutes, add two tea-spoonfuls vanilla, beat two minutes, add chopped nuts, pour into buttered pan and, when nearly cool, cut in squares.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I would like to know if there is a school or place where I can learn to retouch photographs.

(2) Is peroxide cream good for the skin?

(3) What is good to clean white fur?

(1) I do not know of any school making, speciality of retouching. Inquire of a retouching photographer.

(2) Not any better than any other good cold cream. A plain cleansing cream is best for the skin.

(3) What is good to clean white fur?

I believe that the person who lacks faith in themselves, who doubts their own ability will never get past blank rating; that a line of ciphers will list their accomplishments. I believe that no matter what the people say you are never down and out until you give up hope; until you yourself set your seal to the fact that as a winner you have ceased to exist.

I believe that we can all succeed if we have the courage to work conscientiously for success. I believe that, energetically with our fellow men, these godlike qualities will be returned to us.

I believe in living each day so that if the future of the world is to be saved, we must be ready to die for it. I believe that there is nothing shipwrecked in the world, yet in forging ahead in the things of this world, in keeping ever before one the bright, bright stars of hope and ambition.

I do not aim to be unduly curious, but what's your belief?

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

In the beginning of the very best year of life I am going to believe in working, not waiting; laughing, not weeping; boosting, not knocking; and in the genuine pleasure of the conspicuousness of work well done.

I believe that we are going to go after something that is really worth while—for a person not far removed from the road of wisdom that spends his precious time in the pursuit of life, that when attained turn to ashes at the touch.

I believe in the work I am doing; and in the work I will be doing tomorrow; and in the reward that follows.

as the night the day work well done, I believe that individually I may not be able to do great things; but as the little things of life are given me to do I will this year do them just as well as I can.

I believe that, collectively, we all try to do our level best for our homes, our city, our country, the unrest that seems to be eating its way into the vital parts of our scheme of things in general will very shortly be a thing of the past.

I believe that if I take my personal share of the responsibility of being sworn under the best flag that floats; if I daily do my work for the best of my ability, not grudgingly for gain, but simply doing small tasks well that I am forming a strong link in the chain that binds the human family together.

I believe and will try to practice the doctrine of good cheer, courtesy, kindness, generosity and Christlike charity. I believe that there is nothing successful in nature or in any work of man that does not call for continuous persistence, therefore I am going to be a "sticker," firmly believing that half the good things of life are lost to the people who lack tenacity.

I believe that the person who lacks faith in themselves, who doubts their own ability will never get past blank rating; that a line of ciphers will list their accomplishments. I believe that no matter what the people say you are never down and out until you give up hope; until you yourself set your seal to the fact that as a winner you have ceased to exist.

I believe that we can all succeed if we have the courage to work conscientiously for success. I believe that, energetically with our fellow men, these godlike qualities will be returned to us.

CHIC EVENING GOWN

Model of black velvet trimmed with fitch fur. Corsage and underskirt of lace.

Too Much Sulphur in Gas.

It is not the soot from gas flames that blackens ceilings and corrodes metal, but the sulphur dioxide or trioxide that is a product of the combustion. If the gas contained little or no sulphur, as it might if the companies would spend a little more money in purifying it, our ceilings would remain white and the silver on our sideboard would not tarnish in a few days.

ANXIOUS.

(1) Black and gold are very appropriate for an elderly woman, but much would not look well.

(2) Black velvet and ermine would be quite suitable. A woman of your age may wear rich looking clothes as long as she keeps them in good taste and makes no attempt to be "girlish." Dignity and elegance belong to age.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What is a suitable color for a winter wedding dress?

(2) Is it right for us to wink back at the boys we meet on the street when they wink at us? Do you think they are nice fellows?

(3) What will make yellow teeth white?

(4) Is it improper for us to dance the turkey trot?

ROSE BUD AND CURLY LOCKS.

(1) White is always suitable. If it is an afternoon wedding where the young couple expects to go on the wedding journey without changing their clothes, any of the modest colors may be worn.

(2) Boys who respect girls do not wink at them. Don't notice them.

(3) Wash them with peroxide once or twice a week.

(4) The turkey trot is not modest and I do not like to see girls do anything that is not modest.

Question Still Undecided.
Writers in magazines are still debating the question as to whether women are more responsible than men for the low tone of modern literature, not only as the writers of books, but as the readers. One writer suggests that novelists should be licensed and that they should give evidence of wholesomeness and purity of thought before the coveted privilege to publish could be obtained.

One Good Point Noted.
There is one good point about this new scheme of talking to the dead. You have to call them up first. They do not come around at your busiest hour and insist on unloading a tale of woe into your ear.—Chicago News.

Household Hint

THE TABLE.
French Dressing—One-half tea-spoonful of salt, one-quarter tea-spoonful of pepper, two tea-spoonfuls of vinegar, four tea-spoonfuls of olive oil. Mix the ingredients and stir until well blended. Some prefer the addition of a few drops of onion juice.

Lex-Punch—Two cups of water, three-quarters cup of sugar, two-thirds tumbler of currant jelly, ice, one cup of orange juice, one-half cup of lemon juice, two bottles of ginger ale, one-third cup of brandy. Make a syrup by boiling the sugar and water fifteen minutes. Add the jelly and, as soon as dissolved, add a piece of ice to cool the mixture; then add the fruit juices, ale, and brandy. Color red, freeze to a mush, serve in glasses and insert in each glass a small sprig of holly with berries.

Minced Lamb on Toast—Remove dry pieces of skin and gristle from remnants of cold roast lamb, then chop meat, heat in a well-buttered frying pan, season with salt, pepper and celery salt, and moisten with a little hot water or stock; or, after seasoning, dredge well with flour, stir and add enough stock to make thin gravy. Pour over small slices of buttered toast.

One-Egg Muffins—Three and one-half cups of flour, six tea-spoonfuls of baking powder, one tea-spoonful of salt, one and one-third cups of milk, three tea-spoonfuls of melted butter, one egg, three tea-spoonfuls of sugar. Mix and sift the dry ingredients; add gradually the milk, egg well beaten and the melted butter. Bake in buttered gem pans twenty-five minutes. If iron pans are used they must be previously heated. This will make thirty muffins.

Currant Cake—One-half cup of butter, one cup of sugar, two eggs, is sold in a carton package—no can or jar. It's clean, pure, rich, spicy. It's economical, convenient and above all, mighty good to eat. Get the habit. Serve a

PACKED HOUSES FOR

WINNING COMPANY

Facked Houses for Standing Room at Premium for New Year's Day Performances of Popular Stock Actors.

"Standing room only" was the record of the Frank Winninger Stock Company in their performances on Wednesday and Thursday, at both the matinee and evening, at the Opera House. The company is making a record run during the present engagement, proving the popularity of their semi-musical comedies.

Thursday night the company offered "The Village President," which proved a gratifying comedy that excited mirth from start to the finish. Under the character of Frank Hochstetler, Frank Winninger was able to display his talents in a most effective manner as a German comedian, his dialect and changed about expressions being the bright spot of the play. In the second act, the recitation room in the school building scene, his ability to bring the audience to a point of hysterical laughter was demonstrated by his facial expressions was demonstrated.

Florence Frey and the Le Grande sisters, acting as gossip mongers, attempting to defame the school teacher, who was the subject of the play, their husbands, proved well able to carry the parts and won appreciative applause for their work.

Miss Lila Le Grande as Eliza Carter carried her part in a creditable manner. Her 35 gives at the Academy of Music presented the "Dutch Blockhead" with great success. Both of these plays have been given from the Janesville stage in previous engagements by the company, and the plots are well known. Specialties were given as features of the performance and served as an excellent diversion from the comedy itself.

The dancing of Misses Grant and Poole in the presenting the Texas Tommy and the other popular dances, without seeming to prove their popularity as masters of the latest fad in dancing.

On Friday night the company offers "The Promoters" for the first time and it promises to be their best play. It contains a large musical program and is thoroughly modern.

Two hundred and twenty couples attended the New Year's Eve party given by the Bower City Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers numbering 35, given at the Academy Hall, the dancers witnessing the passing of the old year and the arrival of 1914.

With the stroke of twelve announcing the new year all dancing stopped and the New Year was welcomed with guests and merry making.

The hall was beautifully decorated, green vines hanging from all parts of the rooms and from the walls. Six large lights extended enclosed in lattice work and gave the hall a mystic light. Dancing was held until three in the morning. Hatch's orchestra furnished the music. The ball this year eclipsed other efforts by the firemen.

The following committee were in charge: Floor committee, R. K. Smith, F. A. Wausaw, H. Vobian, A. Hillmeyer, L. Davis, J. B. Kauffman and J. W. Hackshaw. The arrangements were in charge of L. D. Walen, W. M. Hackshaw, R. K. Smith, W. M. McAllister, F. A. Wausaw and M. J. McCarthy.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—No indeed, you can't slight Mother—

By F. LEIPZIGER

On a Business Visit.
Mrs. R. was in the habit of giving little Robert an orange whenever he went home from her house. Another little boy named Edward found this out, and one day when he happened to be over there, he said, "When is it that you give Robert an orange, when he comes or when he goes?" Mrs. R. told him she gave it to him when he goes, so Edward said, "Guess I'll go now."

JACKSONVILLE ELDER

Writes Characteristic Letter Regarding Loss of Appetite.

He says:
"Vinol is just the thing for summer, winter, fall or spring. Follow directions, take it right. It will save your lagging appetite."

"I know for I have tried it. For weeks I could scarcely eat, enough to keep a snake alive. I have taken three bottles of Vinol and now it looks like I will eat my head off. I am at the table three times a day eating as I did in the good old days when I split rails, dug wells, toped trees, plowed corn and head cotton. Try Vinol and see how good it feels to be real hungry."

"When you ought to be hungry and are not it is because your stomach does not feel strong enough to ask for food—a sure sign of impaired general health. Better than dosing the stomach with peppin for temporary relief is taking Vinol, our delicious tonic, which has the strengthening and the blood-making power of iron, and the building-up value of cod liver oil. It quickly restores appetite and perfect digestion. If Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing. Smith Drug Co., Druggists, Jacksonville, Wis. P. S. If you have any skin trouble try Saxo-Salve. We guarantee it."

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Ointment Ends Itching and Heals Skin Eruptions.

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of all impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol positively speeds healing of eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and clears away disgusting pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at our expense. Just write to Dept. 7-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you by parcel post a generous trial of each, with the two new Resinol Books.

DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

THOUSANDS EXPERIENCE BAD AFTER EFFECTS FROM THIS DANGEROUS DRUG.

A Safe, Vegetable Substitute is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel necessity, when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them, 50c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. All druggists.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA
FROM THE PLAY OF BAYARD VEILLER

Copyright, 1914, by the M. K. F. Company.

"But you love me—you do love me, know?" The young man spoke with joyous certainty, for some indication of her voice had told the truth to his heart. Nothing else mattered. "But now, to come back to this hole we're in here. Don't you understand at last that you can't beat the law? If you're caught here tonight where would you get off—caught here with a gang of burglars? Why didn't you go to Chicago, as you planned?"

"Planned? With whom?"

"Why, with Burke."

"Who told you that I had arranged any such thing?"

"Burke himself did."

"When?" Mary was standing rigid now, and the rare color flamed in her cheeks. Her eyes were blazing.

"Less than an hour ago."

"Where?"

"In this room."

"What was he doing here?"

The seemingly simple answer appeared the last straw to the girl's burden of frenzied suspicion. Her voice cut fiercely into the quiet of the room.

"Joe, turn on that light! I want to see the face of every man in this room."

The blaze of the chandelier flamed brilliantly over all. Griggs moved stealthily a little nearer the door into the passage.

But Mary's next words came wholly as a surprise.

"Dick," she cried, "what are those tapestries worth?" She pointed toward the draperies that shrouded the great octagonal window.

"Oh, $200 or $300, I suppose," he answered. "Why?"

"Never mind that. How long have you had them, Dick?"

"Ever since I can remember."

"And they're not famous masterpieces which your father bought recently from some dealer who smuggled them into this country?"

"I should say not!"

"It's a trick! Burke's done it! Mary's word came with accusing vehemence."

There was another single step made by Griggs toward the door.

Mary's eye caught the movement, and her lips soundlessly formed the name:

"Griggs!"

The man strove to carry off the situation, though he knew well that he stood in mortal peril. He came a little toward the girl who had accused him of treachery.

"He's lying to you!" he cried forwardly, with a scornful gesture toward the door.

with me—her husband?"

"Where's your father?" he questioned roughly.

"In bed, naturally," was the answer. "I ask you again. What are you doing here at this time of night?"

"Oh, call your father," Burke directed.

"It's late," Dick objected. "I'd rather not disturb him. If you don't mind, I'll have to tell you the truth. It's this: I've persuaded my wife to go away with me. She's going to give all that other sort of thing up. Yes, we're going away together. So, you see, we've got to talk it over. Now, then, inspector, if you'll come back in the morning."

As he spoke the white beam of the flashing searchlight from the tower fell between the undrawn draperies of the octagonal window. The light startled the inspector again, as it had done once before that same night. His gaze followed it instinctively. So within the second he saw the still form lying there on the floor.

There was no mistaking that awful, motionless, crumpled posture. The inspector leaped to the switch by the door and turned on the lights of the chandelier. In the next moment he had reached the door of the passage across the room, and his whistle sounded shrill. His voice belated re-enforcement to the blast.

"Cassidy! Cassidy!"

Cassidy came rushing in with the other detectives.

"Why, what's it all mean, chief?" he questioned.

"They've got Griggs!" Burke answered. "There was exceeding rage in his voice as he spoke from his kneeling posture beside the body, to which he had hurried after the summons to his aids. "I'll break you for this, Cassidy," he declared fiercely. "Why didn't you get here on the run when you heard the shot?"

"But there wasn't any shot," I tell you, chief, there hasn't been a sound."

Burke rose to his feet. His heavy face was set in its sternest mold.

"You could drive a hearse through the hole they made in him," said Cassidy. Burke wheeled on Mary and Dick. "So," he shouted, "now it's murder! Well, band it over! Where's the gun?" He nodded toward Dick as he gave his order. "Search him!"

Dick took the revolver from his pocket and held it out.

At this incriminating crisis for the son the father hastily strode into the library. He had been aroused by the voice as he spoke from his kneeling posture beside the body, to which he had hurried after the summons to his aids. "I'll break you for this, Cassidy," he declared fiercely. "Why didn't you get here on the run when you heard the shot?"

Inspector's shouting and was evidently greatly perturbed.

"What's all this?" he exclaimed.

Burke, in a moment like this was no respecter of persons.

"You can see for yourself," he said grimly to the dumfounded magistrate.

"So," he went on, with somber menace in his voice, "you did it, young man." He nodded toward the detective.

"Well, Cassidy, you can take 'em both downtown. That's all."

The command aroused Dick to remonstrance against such indignity toward the woman he loved.

"Not her!" he cried imploringly. "You don't want her, inspector? This is all wrong!"

"Dick," Mary advised quietly, "don't talk, please."

"What do you expect?" Burke inquired truculently. "As a matter of fact, the thing's simple enough, young man. Either you killed Griggs or she did."

The inspector with his charge made a careless gesture toward the corpse of the murdered stool pigeon. Edward Gilder looked and saw the ghastly, inanimate heap of flesh and bone that had once been a man. He fairly reeled at the spectacle, then fumbled with an outstretched hand until he laid hold on a chair, into which he sank helplessly.

"Either you killed him," the voice repeated gratingly, "or she did. Well, then, young man, did she kill him?"
